

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

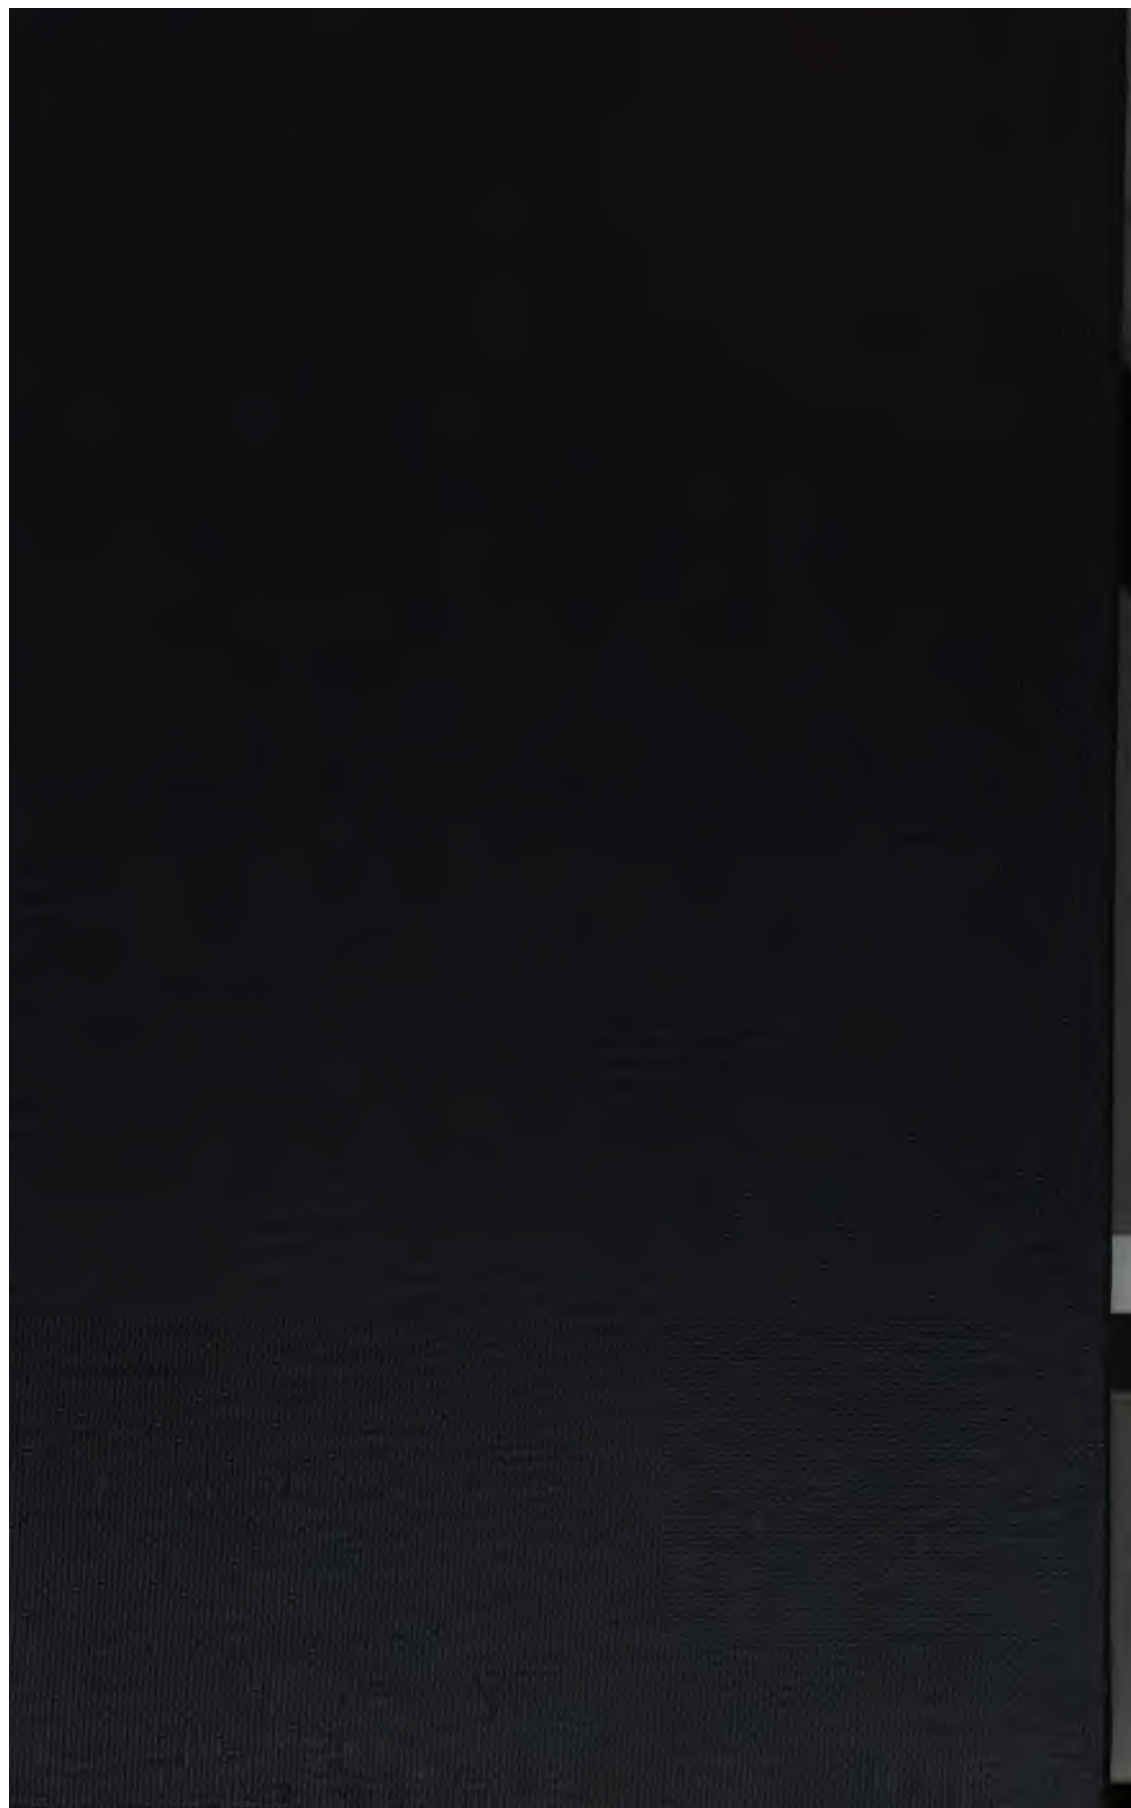

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE.

THIS Catalogue of the THIRD, SOUTH, or OLD SOUTH CHURCH, has been prepared in compliance with a vote of the church, and for the use, primarily, of those who now constitute the membership. It has been compiled from what stand as the original lists; but there is reason to believe that the record of admissions during the first few years, perhaps during the first pastorate, is a transcript from a still earlier record not now in existence, by whom made, or when, we are unable to say. These lists have been closely followed in the first part of the work, in the order of time, in the spelling of the names, and in the new names of female members acquired by marriage. In the second part, which consists of alphabetical lists, the modern method of spelling has been generally adopted. In both these parts, lists are given of those who "owned the covenant," as well as of those who joined in full communion.

In the third part, an attempt has been made to give some information, in the form of biographical notes, of the earlier members of the church, the direct references to the records of the church, and the names of those who joined during the first fifty years, but incidental mention is made of many of the descendants of the founders and first members, who came into the church after 1719, and special pains have been taken to illustrate the relations sustained by families and by successive generations of families to the church. In the preparation of these notes, free use has been made of Dr. Wisner's Historical Discourses, of Savage's Genealogical Dictionary of New England, of Drake's History of Boston, of Shurtleff's Topographical Description of Boston, of Sibley's Graduates of Harvard University, of Holland's Genealogy of the Dawes Family, and of the Memorial History of Boston, edited by Mr. Justin Winsor of Cambridge. But the chief source from which the information here presented has been drawn, is the Diary of Samuel Sewall, published by the Massachusetts Historical Society, and edited by a learned committee of its members. Samuel Sewall, who has been called the Samuel Pepys of New England, but whom we would rather compare with John Evelyn, thought no incident which concerned the Third or South Church in Boston, to which he belonged, or any of its members however humble or obscure, too trivial to be entered in his journals. We are indebted to him for an insight into the character and aims of the men and women who preceded us in the fellowship of this church two hundred years ago, and for an acquaintance with the details of their religious life and experiences, such as are enjoyed by few historic churches, and which enable us to endow with personality, and almost with life, much of what otherwise would have been a dull and dry list of names.

Judge Sewall has much to say about a neighborhood prayer meeting to which he gave his warm personal sympathy, and which he attended with as much regularity as was possible, during the entire period of his Christian life. It was established by his father-in-law, John Hull, and other members of the South Church; and it seems to have been for a time the only regular week-day service in the town except the Thursday Lecture. Frequent reference to this meeting will be found in the later pages of this volume; the following account of it, during the first year of its existence, will serve to introduce it to the reader, and to bring into prominent notice several of the members who participated in its privileges.

1676. "Dec. 13. This day at even went to a private meeting at M^r Nath. Williams's. Emaus Smith spake well to Script. Philip. 2. 3. latter part. Smith spake more to my satisfaction than before. Note, The first Conference meeting that ever I was at, was at our House, Aug. 30, '76, at which Anna Quinsey was standing against the Closet door next the Entry. [She was taken ill the next day, and died Sept 3.] M^r Smith spake to Ps. 119. 9. The next was Oct. 18, at Mrs. Olivers: Capt. Henchman spake well to Heb. 6. 18.

"The Wednesday following I was at Sandwich.

"The 3^d at M^r Hill's. Goodm. Needam and my Father [John Hull] spake to Heb. 3. 12, Nov. 1.

"The 4th Nov. 15 at M^r Wings, where M^r Willard spake well to that proper place, Malach 3. 16.

"The 5th at Mrs. Tappins, where M^r Sanford and M^r Noyes spake to 1 Peter 5. 7. Nov. 22. M^r Fox prayed after. 6th Nov. 29, at Mrs. Aldens, where M^r Williams and Wing spake to Heb. 5. 7. Dec. 6, no meeting because of ensuing Fast. The 7th at Mr. Williams's, mentioned first."

"Dec. 20, Went to the Meeting at Capt. Scottows, where Edward Allin and John Hayward spoke to Prov. 3. 11. How get such a Frame as neither to Faint nor Despise. (8) meeting. Mrs. Usher lyes very sick of an Inflammation in the Throat, which began on Monday. Called at her House coming home."

"Decem. 27. Ninth meeting that I have been at. Which was at Edward Allin's. Script. Jer. 10. 24. N. B. M^r Moody got me to supply his room: Capt. Scottow concluded."

"Jan. 17. Went to the meeting at Mrs. Macharta's, [? Elizabeth Maccartye's] which is the 10th I have been at. The Script. spoken to was Hoseah 6. 3. Then shall we have knowledge and endeavour ourselves to know the Lord (as in the Translation I have by me). Capt. Henchman handled it."

"Wednesday, Jan. 24. Went to the 11th Meeting at M^r Haywards, in the Chamber over M^r Brattles Room, where G[oodman] James Hill and Joseph Davis spake to Job 22. 21. Acquaint thyself with him, etc. Note, M^r Brattle and his Son-in-Law M^r [Nathaniel] Oliver were there."

"Feb. 7. Went to the 12th meeting at M^r Morse his House, where M^r Gershom Hobart spake well to James 1. 19. Feb. 14, 13th meeting at Goodman Davis's, where G[oodman] Tappin and Cousin Savage spake to 1 Peter, 1. 6. By which words I seriously considered that no godly man hath any more afflictions than what he hath need of."

"Feb. 21. Went to the 13th [sic] Meeting at Cousin Savage's, where my Father in Law and Goodman Needham spake to Psal. 6. 1."

"March 7. A pretty deal of Thunder this day. Went to the 14th Meeting at B[rother] Needham's, where M^r Noyes and M^r Alden spake to 1 Sam. 15. 22. To obey better than Sacrifice, etc."

"April 4th was at the 15th Meeting, kept at our house in the little Hall, because of my wives weakness. Mr. Scottow spoke to Is. 27. 9. prin."

"April 11, Stormy, blustering fore part, left raining a little before night. Went to the 16th Meeting at B[rother] Easta, where Br[other] Edward Allen and John Hayward spake to John 6. 57. which was very Suitable for me, and I hope God did me some good at that meeting as to my Love to Christ."

"May 16, went to the 17th Meeting at B[rother] Hills, where B[rother] Tapin and Cousin Savage spake to Heb. 10. 24. May 30, went to the 18th Meeting at M^r Wings, where M^r Thacher spake to the 4 last verses of 92 Psal. June 4. Went to Plimouth. June 6. Returned. June 13. Went to the 19th meeting at B[rother] Williams, where G[oodman] Needham and my Father spake to Ps. 119. 11."

It is hoped that the personal history of the membership may be brought down to the close of the eighteenth century, at no distant day; but it is very doubtful whether materials exist for as full a record for the years immediately succeeding the death of Judge Sewall, as during the time covered by his diary. During the revolutionary period, the character of the members and their relation to public affairs will find ample illustration in the lives of Oxenbridge Thacher, James Otis, Thomas Cushing, John Scollay, Thomas and William Dawes, Robert Treat Paine, and Samuel Adams.

By the courtesy of Messrs. James R. Osgood & Co. we are enabled to reproduce in this volume, from the Memorial History of Boston, the autograph signatures of most of the founders of the church. The heliotype of the Rev. Thomas Thacher's "essay for accommodation" between the First and Third churches in 1670, and of the signatures of the women who were obliged to appeal to an Ecclesiastical Council in 1674, before they could transfer their membership regularly to the Third Church, are copied from the original documents on file among the archives

In the preparation of the biographical notes, valuable assistance has been rendered by Mr. John Ward Dean, of the New-England Historic Genealogical Society, and by Mr. Thomas Minns, of the First Church, Boston. Acknowledgment is hereby made also of the interest manifested in the work, and of the aid rendered in its preparation, by the Hon. Peter Thacher, Mr. Henry Ware Holland, Mr. Henshaw Bates Walley, Mr. Walter Lloyd Jeffries and Mr. Harrison Ellery, who are among the representatives, in the present generation, of families whose names will always be remembered at the Old South with affectionate regard.

¹ The name of but one Ruling Elder is mentioned in the Records of the Old South Church; but this does not prove that there were not others, as the Records were very imperfectly kept at first. The choice of Deacons was not always recorded; no mention is made of any election until November, 1685. The names of Samuel Checkley and Bartholomew Green do not appear in the list compiled by the Rev. Dr. Wisner. We find the date of Mr. Green's election in Judge Sewall's Diary. There is a tradition that Samuel Adams, Senior, was a Deacon, but the evidence at hand is not sufficient to justify the insertion of his name in this list.

¹ Deborah was a colored servant, who probably lived with the Sewall family, and, therefore, took its name. Quickly Oliver (1797) is another case of the same kind. In the earlier years, such servants, whether free or otherwise, generally had but one name, as will be seen on the previous pages of this catalogue,—Lydia, Scipio, etc.

LIST OF MEMBERS UNDER THE BAPTISMAL COVENANT.

"Ye are the sons of the prophets, and of the covenant which God made with ¹ The words "joined in full communion" are placed against many of these names on the register; but as others seem to have thus joined besides those which are designated in this way, it has been thought best to omit the reference altogether. A comparison of the two alphabetical lists in the second part of this work will help to show who and how many of the regular members of the Church entered it by the porch or vestibule of the baptismal covenant. During the first ten years, about one third of those whose names appear upon this list subsequently joined in full communion, many of them being the baptized children of the founders and early members,—the Scottows, the Rainsfords, the Davises, the Fraryes, the Brattles, and the Olivers. Later, many of the servants as well as the children were admitted to the privileges of this qualified membership.

BIOGRAPHICAL NOTES.

"The sweet remembrance of the just Shall flourish when he sleeps in dust."

WILLIAM DAVIS, apothecary; artillery company, 1643; freeman, 1645; joint commissioner, 1653, with Leverett, to the Dutch Governor of New York; captain of artill. co. 1664, 1672; commander of a company in the Indian wars; representative. "A man of wealth, enterprise and discretion." His first wife was Margaret, daughter of William Pynchon, of Springfield; his second, Huldah, daughter of the Rev. Zechariah Symmes of Charlestown. He had, according to Savage, a third wife, Judith. He died in May, 1676. Huldah Davis's signature appears on the letter addressed to the First Church in 1669, by the wives of the seceding members; but the name of Joanna Davis is on the letter of 27 Aug. 1674, which appealed to a council.

HEZEKIAH USHER, bookseller; freeman; member of the artill. co.; representative. "He was agent for the Society for Propagating the Gospel among the Indians; and it was through him that types and paper were procured, by which Green, at Cambridge, printed the great Indian Bible in 1660-1663." He went to London for this purpose in the winter of 1657-58. His second wife was one of the numerous daughters of the Rev. Zechariah Symmes. His third wife Mary (1674) was a daughter of William Alford, and afterward married the Rev. Samuel Nowell. Hezekiah Usher, Jr., merchant, married Bridget, widow of the Rev. Leonard Hoar (1672)¹ and daughter of Lady Alice Lisle, one of the victims of the infamous Judge Jeffreys, after the battle of Sedgmoor.

May 14, 1676; "Mr. Hezekiah Usher died, a pious and useful merchant."—Hull.

Nov. 13, 1685; "Barington arrives, brings word of the beheading my Lady Lisle, Mrs. Hez. Usher's Mother, at Winchester."—Sewall.

"Mr. Hezekiah Usher died at Lin; July 11th was brought to Boston, and laid in his father's Tomb, July 14, 1697. Bearers W. Winthrop, Cook, Sewall, Addington, Sergeant, Eli. Hutchinson."—Sewall.

JOHN HULL, silversmith and mint-master; freeman; capt. of artill. co. 1671, 1678; assistant, 1680 to 1685. His wife, Judith (1674), was a daughter of Edmund Quincy. Hull gave her name to a headland in the Narragansett country (where he owned land), which it still bears. Their only child, Hannah (1688), married Samuel Sewall (1677) in 1675. For an imaginary account of this wedding, see Hawthorne's Grandfather's Chair, p. 39. Mr. Hull died in 1683, and was buried in the Granary burying ground.

¹ The year thus given in parenthesis, immediately after a name, is that in which the person mentioned became a member of the Old South Church.

"A large property—350 acres—which he possessed in Longwood, was known as Sewall's farm, after it descended to his son-in-law."

EDWARD RAINSFORD, came in the fleet with Winthrop; said by Hutchinson to have been a brother of Lord Chief Justice Rainsford; this is doubted by Savage, but John Hull, writing from England, March, 1676, says: "Judge Rainsford, brother to him of Boston, is said to be one of their [the Nonconformists'] bitterest enemies. Might not his brother have power over him to move him to some moderation?" He had been a deacon of the First Church, but was dismissed from office because of his participation in the movement for a new church.

"On 12 Feb. 1669, Edward Rainsford and Jacob Eliot were dismissed from the office of deacons for setting their hands, with other brethren, to desire their dismission from the church, because the church had chosen Mr. Davenport for their pastor."—History of the First Church.

He was chosen ruling elder in the South Church, and this is sufficient evidence as to the high respect in which he was held among his brethren. So far as we know, he is the only one who has held the office in this church.

His second wife, Elizabeth (1674), and his daughter, Ranis Belcher (1674), were among the earliest members of the South Church. He died 16 Aug. 1680 (aged 71), being, as Hull says, "old and full of days."

"An Island in the harbor still preserves in its name the record of his former ownership."

PETER BRACKETT, Braintree, freeman, 1643; artill. co. 1648; representative, 1649, "and often after for his own town, and for Scarborough in 1673 and 4;" deacon of the South Church. His last wife was Mary (1674), widow of the first Nathaniel Williams, who had bought from Richard Pepys in 1655, the land reserved by William Blackstone when he sold his rights to the town in 1634. Pepys, when he purchased this land, built a house upon it, and it was said that Blackstone frequently went there on his visits from Rhode Island. Judge Sewall, writing to the Rev. Increase Mather, 24 July, 1688, says: "Deacon Brackett was buried this day."

JACOB ELIOT, son of the first Jacob, who was brother of the Rev. John Eliot, "the Apostle to the Indians." Freeman, 1654. "Captain, in high esteem, selectman, deacon."—Savage. He was a deacon of the First Church, and afterward of the South Church. He married Mary (Powell) (1674), widow of William Wilcock or Wilcox.

Aug. 12, 1693; "Capt. [and Deacon] Eliot comes sick from Muddy-River." Aug. 16; "Dyes about 2. at night." Aug. 17; "Is buried. Major Hutchinson, Sewall, Joyliff, Walley, P. Allen, Bridgham, Bearers. Buried in the new burying place. 'Tis a sudden and very sore Blow to the South Church, a Loss hardly repaired. On the Sabbath, Mr. Willard being in before me, I did not mind D[eacon] Eliot's absence, and wondered I heard not his voice beginning the Ps., and Capt. Frary waited when I should begin it. We shall hardly get another such a sweet Singer as we have lost. He was one of the most Serviceable Men in Boston, condescending to his friends. One of the best and most respectfull Friends I had in the World. Lord awaken us. Scarce a Man was so universally known as He. Dyed in the 61. year of s' age. Was one of the first that was born in Boston."—Sewall.

Eliot Street was afterwards opened through his property, which also included the land on which Boylston Market stands.

PETER OLIVER, son of Thomas Oliver, who came to New England in 1631, and was ordained ruling elder of the First Church, 22 Nov. 1632; the Rev. John Wilson being ordained as pastor of the church on the same day.

“Goodman Thomas Oliver, one of the elders of the First Church, a person held in such esteem by his fellow-townsmen that in the year 1646, when horses were forbidden to feed upon the common, exception was made in favor of one horse for him.”—Shurtleff.

Peter was an eminent merchant; freeman; capt. of artill. co. 1669; died 1670. His wife Sarah (1674), daughter of John Newdigate, died in 1692. Their descendants for several generations were active members of the South Church.

THOMAS BRATTLE, merchant; freeman; artill. co. 1672; was a capt.; representative. He was one of the wealthiest men of his day. His wife was Elizabeth (1672), daughter of Captain William Tyng. He died in 1683. Several of his immediate family became members of the South Church; and he has had descendants, though not of his own name, in the membership almost constantly to the present time.

EDWARD RAWSON, of Gillingham, Dorset, came to New England, 1637, and settled in Newbury, where he was town clerk and representative; removed to Boston, 1650, and was Secretary of the Colony from 1650 to 1686. For an account of his resistance to Edward Randolph, in defence of the liberties of New England, see Palfrey's History of New England, Vol. III. p. 486. He lived in Rawson's Lane, now Bromfield Street, where “he owned some acres of land which bordered on the Common or Training Field, out of which he sold a number of house lots.” He died 27 Aug. 1693.

JOSHUA SCOTTOW, freeman; artill. co. 1645, its ensign 1657 and capt. later; selectman; a great proprietor after Philip's war, at Scarborough, captain of the garrison there and magistrate.

"Mr. Scottow was a merchant of much respectability, nearly contemporary with the Governor [Bradstreet], and, during his early life, took an active interest in all the affairs of the town. But he grew despondent as he grew in years; the change of dress, manners, and social customs from those of the first generation, seemed to him the sure presage of destruction, and he poured out his sorrow in a book of lamentations called Old Mens' Tears for their own Declensions."

This was in 1691. Three years later, he published A Narrative of the Planting of the Massachusetts Colony, which he dedicated to Governor Bradstreet (1680). Sewall records, 21 Jan. 1697-8:

"It seems Capt Scottow died the last night. Thus the New England Men drop away." Jan. 22: "Capt Joshua Scottow is buried in the old burying place; Bearers, Maj^r Gen^l Winthrop, Mr. Cook, Col. Hutchinson, Sewall, Sergeant, Walley: Extreame Cold. No Minister at Capt. Scottow's Funeral; nor wife nor daughter."

Mr. Scottow's four daughters, and his son, joined the church in 1669, under the baptismal, or halfway, covenant, and the former were afterward received to full membership. The son, Thomas, Harv. Coll. 1677, was of Scarborough in 1681; register of probate, 1687 to 1693; and died before 1715.

BENJAMIN GIBBS, freeman; artill. co. 1666; captain in Philip's war. His wife was Lydia (1671), daughter of Joshua Scottow (1669); after his death she became the wife of Anthony Checkley (attorney general), and, later, of William Colman.

THOMAS SAVAGE, second son of Major Thomas Savage, who came to New England in 1635, and was commander in chief of the forces in the early part of Philip's war. His mother was Faith, daughter of William Hutchinson, Governor of Rhode Island, and of Anne, his wife, whose religious opinions afterward created so much dissension in the colony. Thomas Jr. was born 28 May, 1640; selectman; an officer in the expedition to Canada under Sir William Phips in 1691. He was capt. of artill. co. the year of his death.

July 2, 1705; "L^t Col. Tho^s Savage dies about 6 p. m."

July 5; "Col. Savage buried about 7. p. m. Companies in Arms: Bearers, Sewall, Foster; Walley, L^t Co^t Lynde; Townsend, Belchar. The Street very much fill'd with People all along."—Sewall.

His wife was Elizabeth (1670), daughter of Joshua Scottow (1669). His father's second wife was Mary, daughter of the Rev. Zechariah Symmes.

JOSEPH ROCK, freeman, 1652. He married Elizabeth (1674), daughter of John Coggan, who, says Savage, brought him a good estate. His daughter, Hannah (1674), married James Brading, and Elizabeth Bromfield (1700) was their granddaughter. Mrs. Mary Rock, of whom Judge Sewall frequently speaks in his Diary, was, probably, Joseph's second wife. She was a daughter of the Rev. John Wilson, of Boston; and her first husband was the Rev. Samuel Danforth, of Roxbury (Harv. Coll. 1643), the colleague of Eliot, who said in reference to his death, "my brother Danforth made the most glorious end that ever I saw."—Sibley. Mrs. Rock was probably a member of the Second Church, as when she died, 13 Sept. 1713, Dr. Cotton Mather preached her funeral sermon. The text was, "His soul shall dwell at ease." The sermon was printed, and is in the Prince Library.

THEODORE ATKINSON, felt maker. Came from Bury, England, with John Newgate or Newdigate. Freeman, 1642. Died, 1701, aged 89. Sewall records that he attended his funeral, 16 Aug. 1701. By his first wife, Abigail, he had a son Nathaniel, born 1645, Harv. Coll. 1667; died before 1700. His second wife was Mary (1673), daughter of the Rev. John Wheelwright, and widow of Edward Lyde.

JOHN WING, son of Robert, who came in the "Francis," 1634; artill. co. 1671, of which he was captain 1693. His wife was Joshabeth or Jehosheba (1670), daughter of James Davis of Boston.

"He was a very thrifty man, so early as 1674 making bond to Samuel Shrimpton for £4,200 secured by Castle Tavern near the midst of the town, and other estate of which part was near the Common, and this mortgage was discharged in three years and he died 22 Feb. 1703."—Savage.

Cord Wing, son of John, had children by wife Sarah (1718), baptized at the South Church early in the next century.

RICHARD TREWSDALE; called on joining the First Church, 27 July, 1634, "servant to our teacher, John Cotton." He was afterward a butcher. Freeman, 1635. Deacon of the First Church. He died, 1671, leaving a wife, Mary.

THEOPHILUS FRARY, capt. of artill. co. 1682; representative. Ordained deacon of the South Church 8 Nov. 1685.

"He married Hannah, daughter of the first Jacob Eliot, and his wife inherited a part of the Eliot lands at the South End. Eliot's house stood at the south west corner of our Washington and Boylston streets, and this part of the estate passed to the Frarys."

His second wife was Mrs. Mary Greenwood; Sewall records that he married them, 12 June, 1690. He was very active in the church, and was prominent in the opposition to Andros and Randolph, when they undertook to introduce the forms of the English Church into the colony.

"Another illustration of the bitter feeling here is found in the account of the funeral of a person named Lilly, who had left the ordering of this to his executors. Mr. Ratcliffe undertook to read the service at his grave, he having been one of the subscribers to the church, but the executors forbade him; and when he began, Deacon Frairey of the South Church interrupted him, and put a stop to the service, for which the deacon was bound to his good behavior for twelve months."—Foote.

Sept. 17, 1697; "I view Mr. Baxters House and the Orchard Capt Frary hath given to the Ministry, which lies very convenient; A living Brook runing by it; and throw Mr. Baxters."—Sewall.

Oct. 17, 1700; "Capt. Theophilus Frary expires about 3 a'clock past midnight."—Sewall.

Three of his daughters became members of the South Church.

ROBERT WALKER, freeman, 1634. Judge Sewall records his death and funeral:

May 29, 1687; "Sabbath. Dame Walker desires me to pray with her Husband, which I do and write two notes, one for our House and one for the Old. Sam. carries the first. Between 12. and one Robert Walker dies, about a quarter after Twelve. He was a very good Man, and conversant among God's New-England People from the beginning. May 31 Tuesday, Goodm. Walker is buried, Capt. Eliot, Frary, Hill, Deacon Allen, Mr. Blake, Pain, Bearers; Mr. Saunderson and Goodm. Serch lead the Widow, Gov^r Bradstreet, Mr. Cook, Mr. Addington, with the chief Guests, were at our house."

His wife, Sarah (1674), died 21 Dec. 1695. Their son was the Rev. Zechariah Walker of Stratford, Conn. He left Harvard College before graduation.

JOHN ALDEN, eldest son of John Alden the Pilgrim of Plymouth and Duxbury, and Priscilla "the Puritan maiden." He sailed for many years as a ship-master, and seems to have been in the employ of his fellow church-member, John Hull, who records in his Diary:

"1669 11th mo. Master John Alden went for England in the ketch 'Friendship,' being three-fourths mine." "1672. I lost my ketch, three-fourths, with her lading, from Virginia, taken by the Dutch from John Alden, worth about two hundred pounds."

He was a leading and much respected citizen of Boston, and, "as a brave and efficient seaman, in command of the armed vessel of the colony, he had done noble service in the French and Indian wars." But his good standing and patriotic service did not secure him against suspicion and accusation, in the days of the witchcraft excitement. We are told that he was not "so circumspect, when they brought him before the court at Salem in May, but he could use the strong language of an old sea dog, as he was, when he was confronted by a lot of wenches whom he had never before seen, and accused of bewitching them. Perhaps his indignation rendered it easier for the magistrates to send him to Boston jail, where he remained fifteen weeks, when he escaped and was concealed by his relatives in Duxbury till the delusion was past." Judge Sewall tells how in one of the intermissions of the court, he was present at a fast at Captain Alden's, upon his account (July 20, 1692).

"Mr. Willard pray'd. I read a sermon out of Dr. Preston, 1st and 2^d Uses of God's Almsufficiency. Capt. Scottow pray'd, Mr. Allen came in and pray'd, Mr. Cotton Mather, then Capt. Hill. Sung the first part 103 Ps., concluded about five a clock. Brave Shower of Rain while Capt. Scottow was praying, after much Drought."

The good Judge, of whose penitence in this connection we shall have occasion to speak again, was not satisfied with the public confession which he made in the South Meeting-house, but went and made private acknowledgments to those who had been wronged.

June 12, 1693; "I visit Capt. Alden and his wife, and tell them I was sorry for their Sorrow and Temptations by reason of his Imprisonment, and that was glad of his Restauration."

He seems to have continued his visits and attentions to them, and was with Captain Alden when he died.

March 14, 1701-2; "Capt. John Alden expired; Going to visit him, I hapened to be there at the time."

Mrs. Alden died five or six years before her husband.

BENJAMIN THURSTON, freeman, 1665. Married 12 Dec. 1660, Elizabeth (1674), daughter of Robert (1669) and Sarah (1674) Walker. In the autumn of 1678, Judge Sewall was very ill with the small pox, which was then making terrible ravages in the town. He afterward wrote in his Journal :

"Multitudes died, two of my special Friends, viz. Mr. John Noyes, and Ensign Benjamin Thirston, who both died while I lay sick."

The Walkers and Thurstons had known the Sewall family in England.

WILLIAM SALTER, admitted a member of the First Church, 1635; freeman, 1636; shoemaker. He owned Spectacle Island. He kept the prison, 1656, and long after, says Savage, was witness to the will of the wretched Mrs. Hibbins, who was "executed as a witch, when she was only a scold." He died, 10 Aug. 1675, aged 68. His wife, Mary (1674), survived him.

JOHN MORSE, probably son of John Morse of Dedham, one of the early settlers, and of his wife, Annis. Born, 8 June, 1639; freeman, 1669. He and Theophilus Frary were appointed commissaries of subsistence in Philip's war. He was one of the original proprietors of Mendon, where lands were assigned to him, 1667 and '68. He died in 1678 or '79. His widow, Elizabeth (1670), applied to the government for compensation on account of his military services.

JOSIAH BELCHER, son of Gregory, of Braintree, and afterward of Boston. Married Ranis (1674), daughter of Elder Edward Rainsford (1669).

SETH PERRY, son of Arthur and Elizabeth Perry. Born, 7 March, 1639; artill. co. 1662; freeman, 1666. Father and son were both tailors.

JAMES PEMBERTON, Newbury, 1646; freeman, 1648. Brewer near the Town Dock. Father of the third minister of the South Church.

Oct. 10, 1696; "Bro' Pemberton dies."—Sewall.

WILLIAM DAWES, born in Sudbury, Suffolk, England, 1620; came to New England, 1635; first settled at Braintree; freeman, 1646; moved to Boston about 1652, and bought an estate in Sudbury Street, then known as the lane from Prison Lane (Court Street) to the mill pond. The mansion house remained in the possession of the family for five generations. It was pulled down by the British during their occupation of Boston in 1775.

March 24, 1723-04; "William Daws, Mason, dyes about 2 pm. A good old man, full of days, is got well to the end of his weary Race."—Sewall.

His family was active and useful in the Old South for an hundred and fifty years. The Hon. Thomas Dawes (1749), deacon, was his great-great-grandson.

JOSEPH DAVIS, perhaps of Roxbury; there married, 1670, Sarah Chamberlain, "but I know not that either belonged to that place."—Savage.

The Rev. THOMAS THACHER, first minister of the South Church. He was born 1 May, 1620, in Salisbury, England, where his father, the Rev. Peter Thacher, was rector of St. Edmund's Church. Having received a good grammar school education, his father offered to send him to either of the universities, but he declined to go because of the religious subscriptions required by them. He came to New England in 1635, and studied for several years under the Rev. Charles Chauncy, then minister of Scituate. "As was not uncommon at that period, he studied two professions—medicine and theology, in both of which he obtained a high reputation. In the former profession, he has the honor of having been the author of the first medical tract ever published in Massachusetts. He first settled in the ministry at Weymouth, where he continued with great acceptance more than twenty years." He removed, 1664, to Boston, "where he preached occasionally, but was chiefly employed in practising as a physician, till he was chosen pastor of the Third Church in 1669. As a Christian and a minister he was greatly and deservedly esteemed. He was among the most popular preachers in the colony. His sermons, of which one only is known to have been published, are said to have been 'elaborate and affectionate.'"—Wisner.

Mr. Thacher was installed 16 Feb. 1670, and continued sole pastor for eight years. His last sermon was preached for the Rev. Increase Mather, from the text "Grow in grace and in the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ;" immediately after, he visited a sick person, was himself seized with a fever, and died 15 Oct. 1678, aged 58. He was twice married: 11 May, 1643, to Elizabeth, daughter of the Rev. Ralph Partridge, of Duxbury; she died, 2 June, 1664; and, secondly, to Margaret (1674), daughter of Henry Webb and widow of Jacob Sheaf. He left several children, and many of his descendants became members of the Third Church.

JOSEPH BELKNAP, son of Abraham of Salem; probably born in England; came to Boston, 1658; freeman, 1665. "Took dismission to Hatfield, there lived in good esteem from 1682 to 1696, then came back to Boston, and died, 14 Nov. 1712, aged 82."—Savage. He lived to see his children's children members of the same church with himself.

Nov. 7, 1712; "I visited Bro' Belknap on his Sick-bed; said he was hoping in the Free Grace of God." Nov. 18; "Mr. Belknap buried. Joseph [the Rev. Joseph Sewall] was invited by Gloves, and had a scarf given him there, which is the first. Mr. Pemberton is not well."—Sewall.

MARY BALLARD.

March 15, 1686-7; "Mrs. Ballard, M^r Lee's Sister, dyes suddenly.—Sewall."

JOHN MELLOWES, born in England; freeman, 1671. Had grant of land in the Stonington country. His house was in Concy's Lane, afterward Cross Street. Martha (1670), his wife, survived him, and married Deane Winthrop.

SUSANNA RAINSFORD, daughter of Peter Vergoose, and wife of John Rainsford, ship carpenter; he was, probably, son of another Edward Rainsford, who came in the "Abigail" from London, 1635. He died, 5 April, 1698.

ELIZABETH MORSE—BUTTON, daughter of Zaccheus Bosworth, and wife of John Morse (1669), whom she survived. No record can be found of her second marriage, except the entry against her name "now Button," in the registry of the South Church.

MARTHA MELLOWES—WINTHROP, wife of John Mellowes (1670); after his death she became the wife and widow of Deane Winthrop, sixth son of the first Governor, John Winthrop; he came with his brother John in the "Abigail," 1635; his first wife was Sarah Glover; he lived at Pulling Point, now Winthrop, and died 16 March, 1704.

DANIEL HENCHMAN, schoolmaster ; freeman, 1672 ; artill. co. 1675 ; soldier in Philip's war.

"First appears in our local history as the assistant teacher in the Latin School, then under the charge of Robert Woodmansey. In 1669 he was appointed on the committee for the survey of a new plantation, and from the history of Worcester it appears that he was one of the most important persons in laying out and settling that town. He died there in 1685. He was a connection of Judge Sewall, and there was in Sewall's house a room called by his name. Everything in his letters shows that he was a good soldier, and a prompt, executive man, and he is, perhaps, the most prominent representative of Boston, as the war goes on."—Hale.

The Liberty Tree, according to a tradition recorded by Dr. Shurtleff, was planted by him, it being on his estate. By his wife, Sarah, he had a son, Hezekiah, who was father of Daniel, elected deacon in the South Church, 17 April, 1719. His second wife was Mary, daughter of John Richmond and widow of William Poole ; she died, 1690.

WILLIAM HOAR,

HANNAH HOAR.

Savage says there was a baker named William Hoar in Boston, who married, 1669, Hannah, daughter of Robert Wright, and was made a freeman, 1671. William and Hannah Hoar were dismissed to the church in Bristol, R. I.

SARAH WARREN, daughter of Robert Tucker, of that part of Dorchester which is now Milton, and first wife of Peter Warren. He bought a dwelling house with land from Theodore Atkinson (1669) in 1659.

ANNE POLLARD, wife of William; she died, 5 Dec. 1725, aged 103 or 105; the church registry gives the latter age. She made a deposition when she was 89 years of age, to the effect that her husband was a tenant of Richard Pepys on land near the bottom of the Common, and that Pepys bought the land of the Rev. William Blackstone.

Dec. 8. 1725; "After Lecture Mrs. Anne Pollard is buried with her great Grand-child Robie in her Arms; about 7. months his mother went with him. The Corps was set in the Chamber next the burying Place. L^d Gov^r there. Went along and went down Queen-street, then in the great street, and so up School-street to the South-burying place. Her portrait is in the rooms of the Mass. Hist. Society. She left one hundred and thirty descendants.

William Roby or Robie married for his second wife (15 May, 1722), Anne Pollard, daughter of Jonathan and granddaughter of William and Anne.

HANNAH SUTTON, wife of Bartholomew Sutton.

DOROTHY PERRY, wife of Seth Perry (1669), and daughter of Michael and Abigail Powell. Mary (Powell) (1674), whose second husband was Deacon Jacob Eliot (1669), was her half-sister. Theophilus Frary's (1669) first wife, Hannah, was a sister of Deacon Eliot. Seth Perry bought some of the Eliot lands, and there seems to have been some informality about the deed; this is supposed to have been the cause of the difference between Frary and Perry, to which Judge Sewall refers in his Diary, and which he and Mr. Willard interested themselves to adjust.

Aug. 19, 1711; "Mrs Perry is buried, a good woman, aged 68."—Sewall.

JOYCE BURGESS, wife of Francis Burgess.

ELIZABETH MACCARTY, wife of Thaddeus Maccarty, who was of artill. co. 1681, and died 18 June, 1705, aged 65. Judge Sewall records that he visited the widow, 24 Dec. 1705; she lived until 7 June, 1723.

His widow married, 1712, the Rev. Joseph Baxter of Medfield. His last surviving son, Thomas, died in London, 1687, and was buried at Stepney; the epitaph on his tomb was quoted and commended in the "Spectator," in paper No. 518, written by Steele.

Among the sacramental silver of the Old South, is a curiously wrought cup, with these two inscriptions: "Memento MARTHA SAFFIN, Obijt. 11 Dec. '78." "Legacy of M^r FARR TOLLMAN to the Old South Church in Boston, 1751." Mr. Tollman also left £300, old tenor, to the poor of the Old South. His name does not appear in the membership; but Hannah Tollman became a member in 1752.

SARAH COOKE. We find the names of Robert and Sarah Cooke, and, also, of James and Sarah Cooke on the baptismal register. A second Sarah Cooke joined the church in 1677.

LYDIA ELLISTON, wife of George (1688) ; freeman, 1690 ; mentioned by Judge Sewall as one of the bearers at the funeral of Isaac Walker, 1688.

ELIZABETH BROUGHTON, perhaps daughter of Thomas Broughton, of Watertown, afterward of Boston, a merchant of large business, who died, 12 Nov. 1700, aged 84. By wife, Mary (daughter of Nathaniel Briscoe), he had a daughter, Elizabeth, who married Obadiah Reed.

JOHN WINSLOW,
MARY WINSLOW,

Joined by letters from the church at Plymouth. John Winslow, brother of Governor Edward, was a thrifty merchant, and representative, and died 1674. His wife, Mary Chilton, came over in the "Mayflower," 1620, and has the reputation of being the first woman who landed from that vessel, leaping ashore at Cape Cod, "in her girlish sport." Shurtleff says that an estate in Spring Lane, adjacent to Governor Winthrop's, came into the possession of John Winslow, 1671.

ELIZABETH ROBBINS, wife of William Robbins.

ELIZABETH JOHNSON ; Judge Sewall mentions a nurse of this name more than once, who had been in his family.

1710 ; "This day, Aug^t 4. Nurse Elizabeth Johnson dyes. Seventh-day, Aug^t 5. Is buried near the Entrance of the old Burying-place ; about 60. years old. I and Major Walley followed next the Women, M^r Pemberton, Hannah and Cousin Jane Green were there."

JOSEPH WHEELER,

MARY WHEELER.

Judge Sewall refers frequently to Joseph Wheeler in his Diary. He was a member of the artill. co. and prominent in the town. A private religious meeting at his house is mentioned, Oct. 1696. In 1698 he assisted Mr. Willard in the matter of Roger Judd's (1684) contumacy.

Dec. 11, 1707; "Madam Usher, son and daughter Hirst and their family, Cousin Sam. and Jonathan Sewall, Bro^r Wheeler and his wife, M—— and her daughter dine with us."

John Wheelwright. Lydia married for her third husband, William Colman, father of the Rev. Benjamin Colman.

REBECCA SCOTTOW—CHURCH. John Scottow, son of Thomas, and nephew of Joshua (1669), had a wife Rebecca, who must have had a second husband. Rebecca, daughter of John and Rebecca Scottow, was baptized 4 March, 1676-7.

JOHN BLAKE,

MARY BLAKE.

John Blake, of Dorchester, son of William; born in England; arrived in this country, 1642; freeman, 1644; married, 16 Aug. 1654, widow Mary Shaw, "but who had been her former husband, or whose child she was, I see not. Perhaps he [John Blake] lived some years in Boston about 1663, and died there early in 1689."—Savage.

MANASSEH BECK, son of Alexander and his wife Elizabeth (Hinds), of Roxbury. "Was freeman 1672, and this is all I know of him."—Savage. His wife was probably a daughter of William Salter (1669).

EPHRAIM SAVAGE, son of Major Thomas Savage (1669), by his first wife, Faith; Harv. Coll. 1662.

"He was freeman, 1672; artill. co. 1674; its captain, 1683, and was for many years town clerk, and in that period the records were carefully kept, except when he was engaged with his father in Philip's war, and served in the unhappy expedition of Sir William Phips, 1690, then having command of one of the fleet; was representative, 1703 and six years more, and took the head of a company of the force drafted and sent on service to Nova Scotia, in the abortive campaign, 1707."—Savage.

He died, 1731. His first wife was Mary, eldest daughter of the second Edmund Quincy, of Braintree, and Joanna (Hoar) his wife; she was a cousin of Judge Sewall's wife, and the Judge, in his Diary, frequently speaks of Ephraim Savage as "Cousin Savage." He married, 1678, Sarah, daughter of the Rev. Samuel Hough, of Reading; and, 1688, Elizabeth, widow of Timothy Symmes, and daughter of Captain Francis Norton, of Charlestown. His third marriage was solemnized by the Rev. Charles Morton, and was one of the earliest instances in New England of marriage by a clergyman. Mr. Savage's fourth wife was Elizabeth, widow of Peter Butler, and daughter of Abraham Brown, who survived him.

Feb. 4, 1712-13; "Privat Meeting at our house, pretty number of men; Mr Tilly here: tis the first Meeting he has been at since his Sickness. Sung 3 Staves 27th Ps. W[indsor]
* * * Cousin Savage was here with his new wife."—Sewall.

ELIZABETH BRATTLE, wife of Thomas Brattle (1669), and daughter of Captain William Tyng and his wife Elizabeth (Coytmore). She died very suddenly, at the marriage of Daniel Quincy and Anna Shepard, which was solemnized at her house, 9 Nov. 1682.

SARAH CRISPE—WILLIAMS. Sarah, youngest daughter of the Rev. John Wheelwright, first married Richard Crispe, and, then, Nathaniel Williams (1675), deacon of the South Church. Judge Sewall gives the following account of her in connection with her death and funeral.

March 3, 1726-7; "Mrs. Sarah Williams dies, a very pious Gentlewoman, daughter of the Rev'd Mr. Wheelwright of Salisbury, whom Mr. Rich^d Crisp first Married, by her he had a Son and daughter. The Son died a young Man. Cap^t Nathan^l Williams married her after M^r Crisp's death, who also died Dec^r 23. 1714. So that Mrs. Williams liv'd his widow something more than twelve years and died on Friday night between 10 and 11. a-clock, after or in the great and violent Storm of Snow, March, 3, 1726-7 in the 79th year of her age, and was entombed in the South-burying place on Tuesday March, 7th following. Bearers, were Sewall, Wyfield; Simeon Stoddard esq^r, Sam^l Checkly esq^r; John Campbell esq^r, M^r Benjamin Walker. Mrs. Sarah Clark her only daughter being the principal Mourner."

Richard Crispe was a merchant, who came from Jamaica. His first wife was Hannah, widow of Benjamin Richards, and daughter of William Hudson, Jr.

The Rev. LEONARD HOAR, born in Gloucestershire, about 1630; it is probable that he came to New England with two brothers, John and Daniel, and two sisters, Margery and Joanna, and with his mother, Joanna. He graduated at Harv. Coll. 1650; returned to England, 1653, and was presented to the living of Wanstead, in Essex, from which he was ejected by the Act of Uniformity, 1662. In 1671, he received the degree of M.D. from the Univ. of Cambridge. In the summer of 1672, he came to Boston, ac-accompanied by his wife, "upon some invitation relating to a settlement in the Pastoral Charge with the South Church," and preached as an assistant to Mr. Thacher, sojourning with his kinsman John Hull (1669), the mint-master. Full notes of the sermons preached by him at this time are in the possession of the Mass. Hist. Society. Hull says that Dr. Hoar was sent for from England by the Third Church, but the presidency of Harvard College being vacant, "it was the earnest desire of the ministers and magistrates that they would spare him for that work, and upon Nov. 15 they did yield him up to that service." His course at Cambridge was beset with difficulties almost from the first, and he held the office only until March, 1675. The recital of these difficulties cannot be given here; it is to be found in Quincy's History of Harvard College. It will be appropriate, however, to say that one of the sins laid to his charge was his "act in joining a church in Boston before receiving a dismissal and recommendation from the one to which he belonged in England." —Sibley. Cotton Mather, who was an undergraduate at the time, says, "Considered either as a Scholar or as a Christian," he "was truly a Worthy Man, and he was generally reputed such, untill happening, I can scarce tell how, to fall under the Displeasure of some that made a Figure in the Neighbourhood, the Young Men in the College took advantage therefrom, to ruine his Reputation, as far as they were able." "His grief threw him into a consumption;" and he died in Boston, 28 Nov. 1675, and was buried at Braintree. He married Bridget, daughter of John Lisle, a very distinguished man, one of the judges of Charles I., some time lord-president of the high court of justice, and joint commissioner of the great seal. Under the Stuart Restoration, his wife, the Lady Alice, had to pay the penalty for his republicanism with her life. She was the first victim of Jeffreys on that circuit of which Macaulay has said that its "memory will last as long as our race and language." Mrs. Hoar became the wife of Hezekiah Usher, Jr., but the marriage was not a happy one. Sewall mentions her joining the First Church, 31 Jan. 1685-6. In 1687, she went with her daughter to England, and remained there until after Mr. Usher's death. She died in 1723; in her will she remembered the poor of the Third Church; she left her estate to her only child, Bridget, wife of the Rev. Thomas Cotton, of London.

SARAH WALLEY, wife of the Hon. John Walley (1679). She died on Sunday, 11 Nov. 1711, just two months before her husband. Her funeral took place on the following Thursday; her bearers were: "Wait Winthrop esq', Elisha Hutchinson esq'; Addington, Sergeant; Belchar, Stoddard. All the Councillors had Scarvs." Judge Sewall was holding court in Salem; but he tells us that he received from Major Walley (1679) a good lute-string scarf and ring, with gloves.

SARAH BALSTON, dismissed to the church in Marshfield. James Balston, Boston, married Sarah, daughter of Ralph Root, and had a daughter Sarah, born 26 Aug. 1653.

JAMES BRACKETT, dismissed to the church in Braintree.

"A cooper, son of Richard; freeman, 1673; removed to Braintree, 1675; by wife, Sarah, had Joseph, Nathan, and several daughters; died 8 April, 1718, aged 72."—Savage.

JOHN HOWARD,

MARY HOWARD,

Joined by letter from the church in Concord. Judge Sewall records that in June, 1688, Mr. James Graham, attorney general, was dwelling in "Mr. John Howard's brick house."

JOHN DRURY. "Boston, 1672; freeman, 1673; carpenter; son of Hugh and Lydia Drury; by wife Mary, had Thomas and John, and died 1678."—Savage. It may have been his second son of whom Judge Sewall records that "John Drury, a desirable young man," died of the small-pox, November, 1702.

JOHN JOYLIFFE.

"He was one of the connecting links with the first settlers. He married, in 1657, Anna, widow of Robert Knight, and previously widow of Thomas Cromwell, that rich privateer who settled in Boston."—Eds. Sewall. "He was freeman 1673, many years a selectman, one of the patriots of 1689, who put Andros in prison, town recorder in 1691; was made by Increase Mather one of the Council in the Charter of William and Mary, but dropped at the first popular choice."—Savage.

In the South Church he was one of those to whom was assigned the difficult and delicate duty of arranging the sittings.

Oct. 26, 1685; "The worshipful Samuel Sewall Esq^r, was chosen to join with M^r Jn^o Jolliffe and Capt. Joshua Scotto and Capt. W^m Gerish in the oversight of the seats."

March 14, 1691-92; "M^r Joyliffe lays down his Recorder's place, his sight does so much fail him." Nov. 23, 1701; "John Joyliffe Esq^r dies. He had been blind and laboured under many Infirmities for a long time * * * Bearers of M^r Joyliffe; M^r Cooke, Addington, Sergeant, Anth. Checkly, El^m Hutchinson, M^r Sallin."—Sewall.

He had a daughter, Hannah, who died unmarried.

The Rev. PETER THACHER, youngest son of the Rev. Thomas Thacher (1669), minister of the South Church; Harv. Coll. 1671. He was a classmate and life long friend of Judge Sewall. He was dismissed to Milton, 1681, when he was ordained minister of the church there.

He married three times : first, Theodora, daughter of the Rev. John Oxenbridge, sixth minister of the First Church ; second, Susanna (1698), widow of the Rev. John Bailey ; third, Elizabeth, widow of the first Joshua Gce.

" Lord's Day, Dec' 17, 1727 ; I was surprised to hear M^r Thacher of Milton, my old Friend, pray'd for as dangerously Sick. Next Day, Dec' 18, 1727. I am inform'd by M^r. Gerrish, that my dear friend died last night ; which I doubt bodes ill to Milton and the Province, his dying at this Time, though in the 77th year of his Age. Deus avertat Omen ! Friday, Dec' 22 ; The day after the Fast was inter'd. Bearers, Rev. M^r Nehemiah Walter, M^r Joseph Baxter ; M^r John Swift, M^r Sam^l Hunt ; M^r Joseph Sewall, M^r Thomas Prince. I was inclin'd before, and having a pair of Gloves sent me, I determined to go to the Funeral, if the Weather prov'd favourable, which it did, and I hired Blake's Coach with four Horses ; my son, M^r Cooper and M^r Prince went with me. Refresh'd there with Meat and Drink ; got thither about half an hour past one. It was sad to see triumphed over my dear Friend ! I rode in my Coach to the Burying place ; not being able to get nearer by reason of the many Horses. * * * Now I can go to no more Funerals of my Class-mates ; nor none be at mine ; for the survivors, the Rev'd M^r Samuel Mather at Windsor, and the Rev'd M^r Taylor at Westfield, [are] one Hundred Miles off, and are entirely enfeebled. I humbly pray that Christ may be graciously present with us all Three both in Life, and in Death, and then we shall safely and Comfortably walk through the shady valley that leads to Glory."—Sewall.

Mr. Mather died in 1728, Mr. Taylor in 1729, and the good Judge, the last survivor of his class, in 1730. The last sermon preached by Dr. Cotton Mather (printed after his death), was his funeral sermon on the Rev. Peter Thacher : "The Comfortable Chambers, Opened and Visited."

HANNAH HOWARD.

" Edward Howard, Boston, married, 7 June, 1661, Hannah, daughter of Thomas Hawkins the baker ; and it is strange that we hear no more of him."—Savage.

MARY ATKINSON, second wife of Theodore Atkinson (1669). She was a daughter of the Rev. John Wheelwright, M.A., Sydney College, Cambridge; and her first husband was Edward Lyde.

Jan^y 4, 1711-12; "Mrs. M. Atkinson, born in New England, aged 73. years, buried in a Tomb in the New-burying place, from her son M^r Lyde's house."—Sewall.

Her sister, Hannah, was the first wife of Anthony Checkley.

MARY BUTLER, wife of Stephen Butler.

DEBORAH PROUT, a daughter of the Rev. Zechariah Symmes, and wife of Timothy Prout the second, who, Savage says, had been a master mariner, and in 1676 had "had striking peril in shipwreck, * * * as in Hubbard, 643, may be read: and was probably lost at a much later day." It must have been the father of whom Sewall wrote:

Nov. 3, 1702; "Capt. Tim^o Prout died last night, aged more than 80 years."

Timothy Prout, born 1666, was actively connected with Old South affairs, although his name does not appear on the list of members; he was on the building committee for the new meeting house in 1728-29; his son Timothy became a member in 1740. Mrs. Deborah Prout died 13 March, 1716.

MOSES PAIN,

ELIZABETH PAIN,

Joined by letter from the church at Braintree. Moses Pain, son of Moses of Braintree, by wife Elizabeth had nine or ten children.

"Artill. co. 1644; freeman, 1647; lieut. and a representative, 1666 and 8: removed to Boston; died 15 Dec. 1690."—Savage.

Dec. 19, 1690; "Three desirable men now dead; one out of each Church. Our M^r Pain the oldest, being about 68."—Sewall.

WILLIAM NEEDHAM; Braintree.

"May have been of Newport, 1638, and came afterward to Massachusetts; freeman, 1648; removed, I think to Boston, had probably no wife or children, for in his will of 10 June, 1690, he freely gives one-third of his estate to Old South Church, opposite to which was his residence, and two-thirds to William and John, sons of his kinsman John Needham late of Boston, deceased, and he minutely disposes of his furniture, and died, 30 [?] Dec. afterward."—Savage.

Dec. 6, 1690; "Brother W^m Needham is buried about 3 a-clock: Bearers, Deacon Eliot, Frary, Allen, Tomson, Bridgham. Had Rings and Gloves. Executors sent me a Ring."—Sewall.

His wife, Grace (1673), must have died some time before. He seems to have served as sexton of the South Meeting House, and his name appears in connection with the usurpation of Andros.

Friday, March 25, 1687: (probably Good Friday); "The Governour has service in the South Meeting house. Goodman[an] Needham, though had resolved to the contrary, was prevailed upon to Ring the Bell and open the door at the Governour's Comānd, one Smith and Hill, joiner and Shoemaker, being very busy about it."—Sewall.

GRACE NEEDHAM, wife of William (1673). They both joined by letter of dismissal from the church at Braintree.

MARY GEORGE, daughter of William Pell, and wife of Richard George; they were married 1 Nov. 1655.

BENJAMIN THWING.

Jan^y 14, 1680-81; "Benjamin Thwing, carpenter, one of the South Church, was going from Mount Hope to Rhode Island in a Canoo with an Indian, was overset by the wind and Ice, drowned. The Indian escaped."—Sewall.

Benjamin Thwing, freeman, 1680, by wife Abigail (1671) had Benjamin and Lydia.

His third (or fourth) wife was Hannah (1682), daughter of Deacon Theophilus Frary (1669). She afterward became the wife of Andrew Belcher (1697).

MARGARET THACHER, wife of the Rev. Thomas Thacher, first minister of the South Church. She was the only child of Henry Webb, a merchant, who left a very considerable property for those days, and gave to Harvard College the estate in Washington Street, upon which the store of Messrs Little, Brown & Co. stands. She was born in Salisbury, Wilts, and baptized there 25 Sept. 1625. She married, 1642, Jacob Sheaf; and several years after his death, she became the second wife of Mr. Thacher. She died, 24 Feb. 1693-94.

Mrs. Thacher, and the twenty-two whose names follow upon the register,—most of them wives and daughters of the founders of the Third Church,—were members of the First Church, to which they applied repeatedly for letters of dismission and recommendation, but in vain. At length, an appeal was taken to an Ecclesiastical Council, and the statement of their case, with their autograph signatures attached, is on file among the church papers. The decision of the council was :

“That such members may joyne, and such a church unto whome they desire to joyne may receive them into their fellowship, without the transgression of any rule of church order or any just offence given unto y^e church unto wch they did belong, provided they be in a capacity, by a convenient vicinity and other necessary circumstances, to walk with that church constantly in y^e course of church fellowp. and come according to their church covenant.”

Many years passed before the efforts of the brethren of the Third or South Church to become reconciled with the First Church were successful.

“On 29 March, 1670, at a meeting called about our dissenting brethren, the question, whether the church see light from the word of God to dismiss our dissenting brethren that desire it, was answered in the negative unanimously.”—History of the First Church, p. 117.

“In 1682, the disagreement between the First and Third churches, which had continued for fourteen years, came to an end. An effort was made in that year to establish an Episcopal church in Boston. Both societies regarded such a church as a common enemy, and so both came together and united their energies to prevent its establishment. The proposal for a reconciliation was voted by First Church, April 23, 1682.”—Ibid, pp. 134, 135.

ELIZABETH GIBBS—CORWIN. Elizabeth, daughter of Jacob Sheaf, by his wife Margaret (afterward Mrs. Thacher (1674),), married, first, Robert Gibbs, a noted merchant; and, secondly, in 1676, Jonathan Curwin or Corwin. Her second husband was born in Salem, 1640; freeman, 1671; representative, 1684, 1689; assistant, 1689; named councillor in the new charter; judge of Superior Court. He died, 9 June, 1718.

OF

MRS. THACHER AND OTHERS,

APPEALING TO AN ECCLESIASTICAL COUNCIL.

MARY NORTON, wife of the Rev. John Norton, who was born in England, 1606, educated at St. Peter's College, Cambridge, and, being dissatisfied with the state of things in the English Church, came to New England in the "Hopewell" with Governor Winslow, 1635; he went to Ipswich and was ordained there; was called to Boston to fill John Cotton's pulpit, 1656, and died, 1663. His wife was the third daughter of John Ferneley, of West Creting, Suffolk. She was born 2 October, baptized 21 October, 1602. In the Magnalia she is spoken of as "a gentlewoman both of good estate and good esteem." In the controversies which arose in connection with the call and settlement of the Rev. John Davenport, of New Haven, as the successor of her husband in the First Church, she cast in her lot with those who seceded from it, and founded the Third or South Church. On the 1st of April, 1669, she gave by deed the land on which the first meeting-house was built. This was the southern part, and somewhat less than half, of the land afterward owned by the parish. The conveyance was to "Capt. Thomas Savage, Capt. William Davis, M^r Hezekiah Usher, M^r Edward Rawson, M^r John Hull, M^r Peter Oliver, M^r Josiah Scottow, M^r Edward Ransford, M^r Richard Trusdall, and M^r Jacob Eliott, and to such as they shall associate to themselves, their heirs and successors forever, for the erecting of a House for their assembling themselves together publicly to worship God," etc. On the 30th of June, 1677, she gave, by another deed, the eastern half of the remainder of the land; and two months later, by will, the residue, together with the house in which she had lived.

"The lot was one of the original grants to John Winthrop, the first Governor, and the father of the colony, and the house just mentioned was the mansion in which he resided till his death. The house was of wood, two stories high, and stood nearly opposite the end of School Street, fronting South; till the first Meeting House was erected, there was upon the lot no other building, and the premises presented the appearance indicated by the name by which they are described in the early records, The Green, being skirted along the main street by a row of beautiful button-wood trees."—Wisner.

Mrs. Norton's second deed, after referring to the former one, and to the grantees therein named as "erecting a Meeting House on the place and becoming a church of Christ, with whom I have had communion ever since," makes conveyance to "Thomas Savage, Edward Rawson, John Hull, Joshua Scottow, Edward Raynsford, and Jacob Elliot, yet alive, and to such as they have associated unto them in church fellowship, or shall be associated to them and to their heirs and successors forever." The language of the will is: "I give and bequeath unto the Third Church of Christ in Boston, my now dwelling house, with all the land belonging to the same, as it is situated near the Third Meeting House in Boston aforesaid, with all profits, privileges," etc.

HANNAH FRARY, daughter of the first Jacob Eliot, sister of Deacon Eliot (1669), first wife of Deacon Frary (1669), and the mother of his children. She died before 1690.

"In 1680, widow Mary Salter sold half her land, bounded east by the sea, west by the highway to Roxbury, south by the old highway to Roxbury, and north by land of Deacon Jacob Eliot."—Eds. Sewall.

JUDITH HULL, daughter of Edmund Quincy, and wife of John Hull (1669), whom she survived twelve years, during which time she resided with her son-in-law, Judge Sewall.

June 21, 1695; "About one at night, Jane [Tappan] comes up with an unusual Gate, and gives us an account of Mothers Illness, not being able to speak of a considerable time. * * * In the morn Roger Judd [(1684)] is sent to Cambridge for Dr. Oliver [(1684)], mother chusing to speak with him and no other * * * About 8. or 9. Zechariah Symmes, and second wife of Major Thomas Savage, the founder of the Savage family, "representative, speaker, assistant, noted as a staunch soldier." Her second husband was Anthony Stoddard, recorder of Boston, and for nineteen consecutive years chosen a representative. He was married four times: first, to Mary Downing, niece of Governor Winthrop; fourthly, to Mary, widow of Thomas Savage. One of his sons was the Rev. Solomon Stoddard, Harv. Coll. 1662, the learned and excellent minister of Northampton, and ancestor of Charles Stoddard (1821); his other sons, Simeon (1691) and Anthony, were very useful members of the South Church.

SARAH WALKER, wife of Robert Walker (1669), who died in 1687.

Dec. 21, 1695; "Between 8. and 9. I went to see Dame Walker, and found her very weak and much alter'd. Mehetabel [Thurston] told her I was there, she said with a low voice, I thank him. Afterward Mehetabel ask'd her if I should pray, she said, I stand in need. * * * I went home to Prayer, Intending after that to go to M^r Willard to pray him to give her one Lift more heaven-ward. ELIZABETH ALDEN, daughter of William Phillips, married, first, Abiel Everill; second, John Alden (1669). Their daughter, Elizabeth (1709), says Savage, married John Walley, possibly grandson of the Rev. Thomas; and next, Simon Willard, "but," he adds, "this union is not clear to me." It was another John Walley, not nearly related, probably, to the family of the Rev. Thomas, who married Elizabeth Alden, the daughter.

Feb. 7, 1695-6; "Mrs. Alden is buried. Bearers were M^r Chiever, Capt. Hill, Capt. Williams, M^r Walley, M^r Ballentine."—Sewall.

ELIZABETH BECK, perhaps the mother of Manasseh Beck (1671); his wife, according to the baptismal register Mary, was a daughter (probably) of William Salter (1669).

SARAH OLIVER, daughter of John Newdigate, and wife of Peter Oliver (1669). Their sons, Nathaniel (1685) married Elizabeth (1683), daughter of Thomas Brattle (1669); James (1684), Mercy, daughter of Samuel Bradstreet; and Daniel (1689), Elizabeth (1707), daughter of Andrew Belcher (1697). MARY BRACKETT, second wife of Peter Brackett (1669), deacon. Her first husband was Nathaniel Williams, freeman, 1640, who died 1661. Nathaniel Williams (1675), deacon, was their son.

SUSANNA DAWES, daughter of John Mills, of Braintree, and wife of William Dawes (1669), who died, 1703.

JOANNA MASON, wife of Arthur Mason (1704), and daughter of Nicholas Parker. Several of her children became members of the South Church. Her daughter, Mary, married the Rev. John Norton (Harv. Coll. 1671), nephew of the Rev. John, of Boston; he was minister of Hingham, and the old meeting house, now standing, was built during his pastorate.

Jan. 8, 1704-5; "I went to the Funeral of Mrs. Johanna Mason. She was a vertuous, pious woman, in the 70th year of her Age."—Sewall.

RACHEL RAWSON, wife of Edward Rawson, the Secretary (1669), and daughter of Thomas Pirne or Perne. She came from England with her husband; died, 11 Oct. 1677.

Mr. Secretary Rawson's mother, Margaret, was a sister of the Rev. John Wilson, of the First Church. Their father was the Rev. William Wilson, D.D., canon of Windsor, and chaplain (and nephew by marriage) of Grindal, Archbishop of Canterbury. Margaret Rawson had a second husband, William Taylor.

SARAH BODMAN, wife of John Bodman, of Boston.

"What time he died is not known, but his widow was one of the first members of the Third or Old South Church."—Savage.

WILLIAM TILLY, rope maker. Judge Sewall speaks of his death, Nov. 1717, "as a great loss to the South-Church and to the town." His widow, Abigail (1704), became Judge Sewall's second wife.

BENJAMIN EMMONS,

MARY EMMONS:

"Benjamin Emmons, of Boston, son of Thomas of the same, freeman, 1676, by wife Mary, who died 12 Sept. 1690, had Mary, born 23 June preceding. He married, 10 Sept. 1694, Mary Amory."—Savage.

But it was Benjamin, Jr. (1698), who married Mary Amory.

ELIZABETH ROCK, first wife of Joseph Rock (1669), and daughter of John Coggan.

LYDIA SCOTTOW, wife of Joshua Scottow (1669), whom she survived several years. Both she and Mrs. Rock should be considered as among the earliest female members of the church, although for some reason they did not join until three months after the other wives of the founders.

May 12, 1707; "Mrs. Lydia Scottow buried; Bearers, Sewall, Addington; Hill, Williams; Ballentine, Coney."—Sewall.

Her age was 86.

MRS. MATHER, probably Sarah, widow of the Rev. John Cotton, of St. Botolph's, Boston, Lincolnshire, and afterward of the First Church, Boston, and third wife of the Rev. Richard Mather, of Dorchester, the persecuted non-conformist clergyman who came to New England in 1635.

"He was a man of excellent discretion, of less learning, it is probable, than his ambitious son Increase, and less brilliancy, it is clear, than his eccentric grandson, the never dying author of Magnalia, but in true service as a minister, happier than either and better than both. He was settled at Dorchester, 23 Aug. 1636; his wife died 1655, and he married, 26 Aug. 1656, Sarah, widow of his great friend John Cotton, and died 22 April, 1669. A few days before, he had met a great indignity, in being refused admittance with sundry others, sent by an ecclesiastical council, met at Boston, to attempt conciliation in the First Church there."—Savage.

John Hull (1669) says in his Diary:

"The Church of Boston would not let him into the doors, when he, with sundry others, waited with a letter from the Council to them; but the Lord soon opened his way into the church triumphant."

The widow made her will 3 May, 1670, but did not die for six years.

Widow CLEMENTS.

William Clements, artill. co. 1662, married Mary, daughter of Joseph Rock (1669), "and of him," says Savage, "I hear no more."

TIMOTHY BATT, youngest son of Christopher and Ann Batt, who came from Salisbury, Wilts, 1638; freeman, 1673; by trade a tailor; had wife, Abigail.

Christopher Batt was a tanner, and bought a large estate opposite to the site on which the Old South Meeting House was afterward erected, having the property of Peter Sergeant (1689) on one side, and that of Edward Rawson (1669) on the other. He was accidentally killed in 1661, by a shot from a weapon in the hand of one of his sons. His wife, Ann, was a sister of the Rev. Peter Thacher, of St. Edmund's, Salisbury, and, therefore, aunt of the Rev. Thomas Thacher (1669) of the South Church. In her will, dated 14 March, 1678-9, she makes Edward Rawson, whom she calls her "trusty and deare friend," and her "honoured and faithfull friend," her executor.

MARY USHER—NOWELL (printed Newel, p. 10).

Hezekiah Usher, the elder (1669), married for his third wife, Mary, widow of Peter Butler, daughter of William Alford; she survived him, married the Rev. Samuel Nowell, of Charlestown, outlived him, and died, 14 Aug. 1693.

Sabbath, May 13, 1688; "Lord's Super at the South-Church. Near half an hour after twelve by that time I got home, by my Clock: and five by that time got home in the afternoon: Day cloudy. Mrs. Nowel here, sits in our Puc, and dines with us. A fine Rain begins at 7. p. m. Mr Lawson [1680] who came to Town to dwell last week, with us."—Sewall.

Aug. 15, 1693; "Mrs. Mary Nowell buried. M^r Cook, Major Hutchinson, Sewall, Allen, Willard, Baily, Bearers. Was laid in M^r Usher's Tomb."—Sewall.

Mrs. BRADING. James Brading, of Newbury, removed to Boston 1659, married Hannah, daughter of Joseph (1669) and Elizabeth (1674) Rock, and had Elizabeth, James, and Joseph. Elizabeth became the first wife of Edward Bromfield (1698), and had a daughter Elizabeth (1700).

The will of Joseph Rock (mercier), probated 3 Jan. 1683, makes bequests to his dearly beloved wife Mary, to the Rev. Samuel Willard, and to the Deacons of the Third Church, and gives the rest of his property to the children of his daughter, Hannah Brading, and to his great-grand-child, Elizabeth Bromfield.

JOHN NOYES, freeman, 1676, married Sarah (1670), daughter of Peter Oliver (1669), and had Sarah, John and Oliver (1693). Sewall mentions his death from small pox, 9 Nov. 1678.

DEBORAH CLEMENT—WILLIAMS. Samuel Clement, probably eldest son of Austin or Augustine, of Dorchester, married for his second wife Deborah ———. Deborah Clement had two sons, Augustine and Samuel, baptized 2 May, 1675, when she joined the church.

LYDIA CHAPIN. There was a David Chapin, of Springfield, who married in Boston, 29 Aug. 1654, Lydia Crump, and had a daughter Lydia, born 19 June, 1655.

HANNAH STILES—WARREN; received from the church in Newbury. Savage says that she was the second wife of Peter Warren, of Boston.

The Rev. ——— WOODROP (printed Woodross, p. 10).

Hull, in his Diary, says that a Scotch minister, Mr. Woodrop, arrived in Boston from Jamaica in the autumn of 1674, and he seems to have remained here several years. Sewall mentions him two or three times. In May, 1676, he speaks of Mr. Woodrop, the Rev. Gershom Hobart, the Rev. Nehemiah Hobart, and three of his classmates, Samuel Phips, the Rev. Thomas Weld and the Rev. Edward Taylor, as coming after lecture and sitting with him. On the 12th of July, 1687, he went down the harbor with a party of friends sailing for England.

"Goe in the Ship M^r Wharton, Sam. Newman, M^r Charles Morton, M^r Woodrop, Mrs. Bridget Usher, and her Daughter Mrs. Bridget Hoar, and others. Had an extraordinary good wind. M^r Usher wept at taking leave of 's Wife and Daughter."—[See ante, 240.]

Against Mr. Woodrop's name on the register is recorded, "removed into Scotland."

NATHANIEL WILLIAMS, second of the name; baptized, 25 Sept. 1642; freeman, 1676; had grant of land, 1679; was engaged in Philip's war as a commissary; and his name appears with the names of other capitalists who had advanced money to the Government at that time. Chosen deacon of the South Church, 15 Oct. 1693, probably to succeed Jacob Eliot. His first wife was Mary (1670), daughter of Peter Oliver (1669), and widow of Jonathan Shrimpton. His second was Sarah (Wheelwright) (1672), widow of Richard Crispe.

The townsmen voted, 9 March, 1690-1,

"That M^r Nathaniell Williams, M^r Benjamin Walker, M^r William Coleman and M^r Symeon Stoddard be Overseers of the Poore in this Towne for the year ensuing,' and thus originated in name the Board of Overseers of the Poor in Boston."—Shurtleff.

Lord's Day, Dec. 12, 1714; "Neither Capt. Belchar nor Capt. Williams abroad." Dec. 13; "I visit Capt. Williams, who has been very sick since last Wednesday. Tells me he was 71 years old that day my son was ordain'd. Desires Prayers." Dec. 25; "Shops open &c. as on other days, very pleasant weather. Capt. Williams buried; Bearers, Col. Checkly, Capt. Hill, M^r Tay, &c."—Sewall.

ROBERT BUTCHER,
ELIZABETH BUTCHER.

They are mentioned more than once in Sewall's Diary. Their son Allwin joined the Third Church, 1705. Samuel Gerrish (1707) published a tract, the subject of which must have been their grandchild :

"Early Piety, exemplified in Elizabeth Butcher of Boston, who Died July 13, 1718, Being just Eight Years and Eleven Months Old. With a Preface by the Rev. M^r Sewall."

LYDIA BATT, wife of Thomas, who was a son of Christopher and Ann Batt. Thomas was a tanner, and succeeded to the business of his father.

Mrs. WALDRON—BRENTON, probably Priscilla, wife of Isaac Waldron, a physician, who was of York 1670, and removed to Boston about 1676; they had children baptized in the South Meeting House between 1677 and 1680. He died, 1683.

Mrs. SANFORD, probably Sarah, widow of Robert Potter, and wife of John Sanford, schoolmaster, of whom Savage says : "was perhaps the freeman of 11 Oct. 1670, and died 10 Feb. 1677. His will of 19 Jan. preceding, proved 24 April following, mentions no children, but gives all his estate to wife Sarah for life." At her death the schoolhouse and land adjoining were to go to the Third Church. His wife Sarah and Timothy Wheeler were the executors.

"At a church meeting, March 20, 1693-94, Voted that Captain Samuel Sewal and M^r Theophilus Frary, be empowered to agree with the relations or executors of M^r Jⁿ Sanforth, about a certain house and land bequeathed by said Sanforth to y^e South Church, and to give or make to him or them a sufficient conveyance of any title which this church hath of claim to said house and land by vertue of such will."

GILBERT COLE, freeman, 1677. He joined the church the same day with Samuel Sewall, who thus refers to it:

March 30, 1677; "I, together with Gilbert Cole, was admitted into Mr. Thacher's Church, making a Solein covenant to take the L. Jehovah for our God, and to walk in Brotherly Love and watchfulness to Edification. Goodm. Cole first spake, then I, then the Relations of the Women [Anne Ganet and Rebecca Hacket] were read: as we spake, so were we admitted; then altogether covenanted. Prayed before and after."

His name was Colesworthy, and is so written by his descendants.

Oct. 15, 1688; "Speak to Gilbert Cole, to Bottle me a Barrel of Beer for the Sea."—Sewall.

SAMUEL SEWALL, eldest son of Henry and Jane (Dummer) Sewall; born at Bishop-Stoke, Hants, 28 March, 1652, and baptized, 4 May, in Stoke Church, by the Rev. Mr. Rashly, formerly a member of the First Church, Boston, and, later, one of the persecuted clergy under the Act of Uniformity. Samuel arrived in Boston 5 July, 1661, resided with his family at Newbury, and fitted for college there; grad. Harv. 1671, and took his M.A. 1674; married 28 Feb. 1675-6, Hannah (1688), daughter and heir of John Hull (1669). In 1684 he was chosen a magistrate of the colony; in 1692 he was appointed by William and Mary a member of their first council for the Province; in 1692, he was made one of the judges, and, in 1718, chief justice, of the Superior Court, and he remained upon the bench until 1728, when he resigned on account of his growing infirmities.

Judge Sewall was a member of the Special Court appointed, in 1692, for the trial of the Salem witches. Of the ten judges, Peter Sergeant (1689) and Wait Winthrop (1689), as well as he, were members of the South Church.¹ His penitence afterward, when his eyes were opened to see what a terrible mistake he had made, was thorough and abiding; and the reading of his confession by Mr. Willard on a fast day, 14 Jan. 1697, he standing with bowed head before the congregation, is one of the most grand and at the same time most affecting incidents of personal biography. It is, perhaps, approached by Samuel Johnson's self-imposed penance in the market place of Uttoxeter, which, Hawthorne says, was "as beautiful and touching a passage as can be cited out of any human life."

"Green forever the memory be
Of the Judge of the old Theocracy,
Whom even his errors glorified,
Like a far-seen, sunlit mountain-side
By the cloudy shadows which o'er it glide!"

Whittier.

Of Judge Sewall's affection for this church, of which he was a member for fifty-three years, these pages, enriched by extracts from his Diary, say all that need or can be said. Of his general character, the following from an obituary notice, written perhaps by his minister, the Rev. Thomas Prince, is the best epitome that can be given:

"He was universally and greatly reverenc'd, esteemed and beloved among us for his eminent Piety, Learning and Wisdom; his grave and venerable Aspect and Carriage; his instructive, affable and chearful Conversation; his strict Integrity and regard to Justice; his extraordinary tender and compassionate Heart; his neglect of the World; his abundant Liberality; his catholic and publick Spirit; his critical Acquaintance with the Holy Scriptures in their inspir'd Originals; his Zeal for the purity of instituted Worship; his constant, diligent and reverent Attendance on it, both in the Church and Family; his Love for the Churches, People and Ministers, the civil and religious Interests of this Country; his tender Concern for the aboriginal Natives; and as the Crown of all, His Moderation, Peaceableness and Humility; which being all united in the same Person, and in an high Degree and Station, rendered Him one of the most shining Lights and Honours of the Age and Land wherein He lived, and worthy of a very distinguished regard in the New English Histories."—News Letter.

¹ Robert Calef, the merchant, who wrote More Wonders of the Invisible World, 1700, may have been a member of the South congregation. A person by that name subscribed to the baptismal covenant, 1703, and had children baptized, the last—"Robert, of Robert and Margaret Calf"—3 March, 1716-17.

The book referred to, "was directed with sharp satire against the belief in witchcraft, and especially against the credit and standing of the eminent men who had been deluded by it."

He died, 1 Jan. 1729–30, in the 78th year of his age. His third wife, Mary (1693), widow of Robert Gibbs (1691), survived him.

SUSANNA EVERINGDEN — PLIMLY, wife of Thomas Plimly.

She was buried in the Granary burying ground, and her tombstone there gives her age as 72. She left an only daughter, Abiah, or Abiel Lindall,¹ who married Captain John Barrell, and had children.

ELIZABETH POOLE, wife of John Poole, merchant of Boston, and daughter of William Brenton, Governor of Rhode Island. She was married, 28 March, 1672, and when she joined the church, she was baptized "at a church meeting at her house," a very uncommon favor, says Savage, if not unexampled before in our country. Their three children were publicly baptized in the meeting house a few days later.

Jan. 19, 1691-2; "Visited Mrs. Pool, who lies sick on bed, and has been there this Moneth; gave her one of M^r Willard's Cordials; was very glad to see me. Speaking about Widow Hamlen [who had died very suddenly a few days before], she mention'd 1 Cor. 10. 31. Mrs. Elisa. Pool has buried five sisters, Eliot, Gard [Card], Sanford, Brown, Burton. Nov. 10, 1711; "M^r John Pole died, Nov^r 7th, Was buried this day."—Sewall.

¹ The two forms of this name are used interchangeably in one or two instances in the baptismal register, although, generally, Abiel is the male, and Abiah, the female, form of the name.

Their daughter Jane (baptized 12 Nov. 1682) was the first wife of Timothy Lindall, of Salem and Boston, Harv. Coll. 1695, speaker, and of the council ; Judge of the Common Pleas, etc.—Eds. Sewall.

Sewall records the death, 9 Sept. 1690, of Mrs. Jane Poole, "a Mother in our Israel," whose name does not appear on the church register. She is supposed to have been the widow of William Poole, of Dorchester.

The Rev. SAMUEL WILLARD, second minister of the South Church.

"One of the most eminent of the ministers that have adorned the New England pulpit. He was a native of the Colony, of honorable descent, and graduated at Harvard College in 1659. He was first settled in the ministry at Groton, where he continued about twelve years, when, that place being destroyed by the Indians, and his flock scattered, in 1676, he removed to Boston, and, on the 10th of April, 1678, was settled as colleague pastor of this [Old South] church. After the death of M^r Thacher, in the following October, he continued sole pastor about two years, when an assistant was ordained. M^r Willard was chosen Vice President of Harvard College in 1701 ; and from the death of President Mather in that year, discharged the duties of the presidency, with high reputation, till a little before his decease in 1707, still continuing his ministerial labors in Boston. * * * In the strange proceedings in relation to witchcraft in 1692, though three of the judges who condemned the persons executed for that crime were members of his church, and to express doubts of the guilt of the accused, was to expose one's self to accusation and condemnation, he had the courage to express his decided disapprobation of the measures pursued, to use his influence to arrest them, and to aid some who were imprisoned awaiting their trial, to escape from the colony."—Wisner.

Judge Sewall thus describes his last illness and death :

1707 ; " 7th 12. Mehetabel Thurston tells me M^r Willard was taken very sick. I hop'd it might go off, and went to Diuer ; when I came there, M^r Pemberton was at Prayer, near concluding, a pretty many in the Chamber. After Prayer, many went out, I staid and sat down : and in a few minutes saw my dear Pastor Expire : it was a little after Two, just about two hours from his being taken. It was very surprising : The Doctors were in another room Consulting what to do. He administred the Lord's Supper, and Baptiz'd a child last Lord's Day : Did it with suitable voice, Affection, Fluency. Did not preach : 7th 11th, went to Lecture and heard M^r Pierpont. At even seem'd much better than had been lately. Tis thought cutting his finger might bring on this tumultuous passion that carried him away. There was a dolefull cry in the house. Feria Secunda, 7th 15th, M^r Willard is laid by his Tutor in my Tomb, till a new one can be made. Bearers, D^r Mather, M^r Allen ; M^r Tho. Bridge, M^r C. Mather ; M^r Wadsworth, M^r Colman. Fellows and Students of the College went before. M^r Pemberton Led Madam Willard. Gov^r and his Lady had Rings : Bearers, Scarvs and Rings. The Lady Davie and Lady Hobbie were there. Son Sewall led his Sister Paul Dudley ; he being gon to Plimouth Court. Very Comfortable Day."

Mr. Pemberton and Mr. Colman preached funeral sermons, which are in the Prince Library ; which also contains a number of Mr. Willard's published sermons, and his celebrated lectures on divinity, "the largest [work] that was ever Printed Here, and the first of Divinity in a Folio Volume." See Preface by Joseph Sewall and Thomas Prince.

Mr. Willard's first wife was Abigail Sherman ; his second, Eunice Tyng (1681). His eldest daughter, Abigail (baptismal covenant, 1680), married first, the Rev. Benjamin Estabrook, of Lexington, and then, the Rev. Samuel Treat, of Eastham, son of Robert Treat, and ancestor of Robert Treat Paine (1749).

REBECCA CROAKHAM—HARRIS, daughter of Abraham Jocelyn and his wife Beatrice, who afterward married Benjamin Bosworth. Rebecca married successively, John Croakham, Thomas Harris and Edward Stevens.

Jan. 11, 1711-12 ; " Mrs. Beatrice Bosworth is buried, aged 50 years. Her first husband's name was Joclin, by whom she had her daughter Stephens."—Sewall.

"Benjamin Franklin of Boston, son of William, of the same, by wife Catharine had Joanna, born 12 July, 1672; Sarah, 2 Oct. 1674; Benjamin, 28 Jan. 1677."—Savage.

The last two were baptized 7 April, 1678, one week after their mother joined the church.

CONSTANT PALFREY, wife of William Palfrey.

REBECCA NASII.

Judge Sewall speaks of her two or three times in connection with the will of Mrs. Mary Mighill, who died at her house.

REBECCA GILBERT.

"William Gilbert, Boston, cordwainer and merchant, 1675, had wife Rebecca, three sons, of whom William was one, who died soon after his father, also daughter Mary. He died January, 1693."—Savage.

SUSANNA CARTER, wife of Ralph Carter, Boston, 1676.

CATHARINE SIMPKINS. Pilgrim Simpkins, Boston, married for his second wife, Catharine Richardson. His will of 19 Nov. 1714, proved 2 Jan. 1721, provides for his wife Catharine, who is made executrix, and divides his estate among his children. His first wife, Miriam, died, 1660, and left a daughter Miriam (1704), who married Thomas Tyler.

PAUL DUDLEY, youngest son of Governor Thomas Dudley, merchant; artill. co. 1677; collector of the customs. He married Mary (1690), daughter of Governor Leverett, and died, 1681; a posthumous child, Paul, was baptized at the South Church, 30 April, 1682. His widow married Penn Townsend as his second wife.

Dec. 1, 1681; "The well accomplish'd merchant and Accomptant, M^r Paul Dudley, dyed, being little above 30 years old."—Sewall.

JOHN WALLEY, came to this country before his father, the Rev. Thomas Walley, of Barnstable. He was of the artill. co. 1671; freeman, 1673; one of the council named in the royal commission to Andros, and in that to Sir William Phips. Capt. of artill. co. 1679, 1699, 1707. He was a judge of the Superior Court, and Lieut. General of the forces in the expedition to Canada, 1690. We find constant reference to him in Judge Sewall's Diary; and he is mentioned in the church records, as serving on important committees.

Dec. 22, 1711; "I visit Major Walley, who is now in a manner wholly confin'd to his chair." Jan. 7; "A considerable snow fell last night. I visit Major Walley." Jan. 9; "I visit Major Walley, who is much worse, and seems to be hastening to his Long home. Desired of M^r Wadsworth the continuance of his Prayers." Jan. 11; "Major John Walley dies. I was at prayer with him last night. M^r Pemberton pray'd excellently. He was a good Neighbour, a publick spirited Man, a Purchaser and principal Settler of Bristol." Jan. 17; "Went to the Funeral of Major Walley; Bearers, Winthrop, Sewall; Addington, Sergeant; Belchar, Mico. Tomb in the new Burying place."—Sewall.

Mr. Pemberton's funeral sermon on Mr. Walley is preserved in the Prince Library. The text was, "For David, after he had served his own generation by the will of God, fell on sleep, and was laid unto his fathers and saw corruption."

"It becomes the whole Land," said Mr. Pemberton, "to resent his Removal; and this Church in particular: for God hereby has made a breach upon us, and taken away One of our Main, and most Antient Pillars. And if we do not resent and improve the hand of God; we shall have Reason to fear least God Smite us with breach upon breach; and remove more of those Antient and Honorable Senators, which are now no small part of our Strength and Glory." * * * He was blessed with an uncommon Sweetness and Candor of Spirit, which being improved and regulated by Grace, did dispose him to a ready observation of the Law of Kindness in his whole Conversation."

His daughter, Elizabeth (1711), married the Rev. Joseph Sewall, fourth minister of the South Church, and his grandson, Samuel Sewall (1749), was elected deacon in 1763. Mr. Walley has had faithful representatives in the church in almost every generation since his death.

SIMON BRADSTREET,
ANNE BRADSTREET.

Simon Bradstreet, educated at Emanuel College, Cambridge, came to this country in the "Arbella," with Governor Winthrop; assistant, 1630, and during forty-eight years. In 1679 he was chosen Governor, and annually thereafter until 1686, when Joseph Dudley assumed the office of President under a commission from James II. After the deposition of Sir Edmund Andros by a revolution of the people, in April, 1689, Bradstreet was again chosen Governor, and served until May, 1692. He married first, Anne, daughter of Governor Thomas Dudley; and secondly, Anne, daughter of Emanuel Downing, and widow of Joseph Gardner. Her sister, Mary Downing, married Anthony Stoddard, as his first wife.

In 1663, Simon Bradstreet and Thomas Danforth were appointed to prepare "an epistle to the Indian Bible, dedicatory to His Majesty, and to cause the same to be printed."

"The most venerable figure whom we now see is old Simon Bradstreet, full of years and of dignity. When Andros is overthrown in 1689, he will be placed at the head of the government, though weighed down with the snows of ninety years. We prize the few words in which the Labadist missionaries describe him, 'an old man, quiet and grave, dressed in black silk, but not sumptuously.' Venerable, but not forcible, his memory was long cherished, largely because he had the happy fortune to linger the last survivor of a band of remarkable men. He seemed to concentrate in himself the dignity and wisdom of the first century of Massachusetts life."—Foote.

March 27, 1697; "About 10. at night Gov^r Bradstreet dyes; which we are told of March, 29th at Cambridge, where we were upon the account of Mrs. Danforth's Funeral." April 2; "About 3 was the Funeral; Bearers, M^r Danforth, Major Gen. Winthrop, M^r Cook, Col. Hutchinson, Sewall, M^r Secretary: Col. Gedney and Major Brown led the widow; I bore the feet of the Corps into the Tomb, which is new, in the Old Burying place. M^r Willard, Capt. Checkly, Capt. Hill, Capt. Williams, Cap^t Belchar, &c. there. M^r Bromfield, M^r Eyre. Probably very many would have assisted had not the wether been discouraging. Three Volleys, but no Great Guns, by reason of the Scarcity of Powder. Came home comfortably in the Sunshine; which prov'd well; for the next morning was a set Rain. Ministers at the Funeral, M^r Willard, M^r Shepard, M^r Chiever, M^r Higginson, Noyes, M^r Hale, M^r Gerrish, M^r Hubbard of Ipswich, which are all I took notice of."—Sewall.

Mrs. Bradstreet died in Salem, April, 1713.

WILLIAM GERRISH, married, 1645, Joanna, widow of John Oliver. The Rev. Joseph Gerrish, of Wenham, was his son.

SAMUEL SENDALL, Boston, was first at Newbury; in his will he says: "Edward Rawson brought me into this country." Had wife Joanna. Another wife, Elizabeth, in his will of 29 Sept. 1684, proved 8 Oct. next, described as "singular comfortable and good wife and yokefellow," had been provided for by the contract of marriage, yet he gave something to her and also to her daughter Abigail. —Savage.

She had been third wife of John Warren; and found another husband in John Hayward, the notary; and a fourth in Phineas Wilson, of Hartford.

PRUDENCE FRARY, daughter of John, of Medfield, and niece of Deacon Theophilus Frary (1669). She was born 20 Aug. 1662; married Henry Adams, 3rd, of Medfield, and was received into the church there, 1 Aug. 1697. She died in 1750, "having seen the fifth generation."

"The remembrance of her virtue is still cherished."—Morse (1859).

HANNAH HOWARD—MAIR, wife of John Mair.

WILLIAM AVERY.

"Of Dedham, a physician, or apothecary, probably both, artill. co. 1654. His wife Margaret died 28 Sept. 1678."—Savage.

Judge Sewall writes, under date 4 May, 1687:

"Goe to the meeting at Mistress Averys; read out of Dr. Sibbs about submitting to God's Providence."

Mary Tappan (1674) was his second wife.

The Rev. DEODAT LAWSON, son of the Rev. Thomas, of Denton, Norfolk, England. Is first heard of at Martha's Vineyard, 1676. Savage says, if he had become a member of the Second instead of the Third Church, when he came to Boston, Cotton Mather would have told more about him in his Magnalia. Freeman, 1680; preached for a time at Salem Village, now Danvers, where the people would have settled him, but he moved to Scituate, and became the third minister of the Second Church there, to which he transferred his membership from the South Church. He was at Salem Village during the sad experiences there in connection with the witchcraft delusion, and preached a sermon, 24 March, 1692, entitled "Christ's Fidelity the only Shield against Satan's Malignity," which was printed, and is in the Prince Library. He died, after 1698. His first wife was Jane (1683); his second, Deborah Allen.

JAMES PECKER,
GOODWIFE PECKER.

"James Pecker, Charlestown, 1658, said to have been born 1622, perhaps had wife Elizabeth, daughter of John Friend of Salem; was afterward at Haverhill, and last, about 1682, at Boston."—Savage.

Judge Sewall mentions an Ensign Pecker incidentally.

ELIZABETH HERBERT, wife of John. John Herbert, of Reading, capt., married about 1680, Elizabeth, widow of Nathaniel Graves, and daughter of the Hon. Richard Russell; he died, 1712; the widow died, 18 Oct. 1714.

SAMUEL GREENWOOD, son of Miles, of Norwich, England; Boston, 1670. By wife Mary (1671), had daughter Mary, baptized 4 Jan. 1673-4, who died at 45 years of age, unmarried; also Samuel, and other children. He died, 19 Aug. 1711.

Aug. 21, 1711; "Samuel Greenwood, an honest christian, North-burying place. 65."—Sewall.

REBECCA BLAKEMAN, daughter of Joshua Scottow (1669), and wife of the Rev. Benjamin (son of the Rev. Adam) Blakeman, who graduated at Harv. Coll. 1663, and was ordained, 1674, at Malden, where for a time he was a colleague of the Rev. Michael Wigglesworth.

"He gave up his pulpit 1678, removed next year to Saco, there was a magistrate, but he for some time preached at Scarborough. During the great French and Indian war, being driven to Boston, he served, 1683, as representative for Saco, but continued to live at Boston. Their children, Benjamin and Rebecca, were baptized at the Old South."—Savage.

"At her second marriage, Mr. Belcher had four young daughters, who all married great connections, and a son Jonathan [(1706)], who graduated at Harvard College, 1699, and became royal governor of Massachusetts. She seems to have had no issue, but her influence in rearing the children of Mr. Belcher must have been efficient and happy. At her house during the momentous crisis of our first revolution, must have been secret consultations by leading patriots, like her father and husband, whose plans were not disclosed until ripened into action."—Morse.

PRUDENCE MORSE. Christopher Morse, Boston, mariner, had a wife Prudence, and a daughter of the same name born 6 Feb. 1665.

JOSEPH BRISCO, son of Joseph, of Boston, and of his wife Abigail, daughter of John Compton. He was a neighbor and friend of Judge Sewall, who frequently mentions him in his Diary. He was a bearer at the funeral of Dame Walker, Dec. 1695, and at that of Mrs. Abigail Perry, Oct. 1718. Judge Sewall speaks of him as his son's tenant, and (1703) performed the marriage ceremony for one of his daughters. By his wife Rebecca (1682), he had Rebecca, Joseph, John and Sarah.

PHŒBE BROOK—MANLY, wife of William Manly (1689).

MARY PEASE, wife of Samuel Pease.

1683.

JOHN EYRE, or EYERS, youngest son of Simon, of Watertown, surgeon, who came in the "Increase" from London, 1635. KATHARINE EYRE—WINTHROP, daughter of Thomas Brattle (1669), sister of Elizabeth Oliver (1683), and wife of John Eyre (1683). She told Judge Sewall in the winter of 1717-18, that she was married to Mr. Eyre 20 May, 1680; they lived together for twenty years and had twelve children, nearly all of whom died young. She married, secondly, Wait Still Winthrop (1689) as his second wife, and became a widow again, 7 Nov. 1717. Judge Sewall would have married her for his third wife, had he received encouragement from her, as appears from the very explicit entries in his Diary. Their relations, however, continued to be friendly; and he gives an account of a visit which he made to her when she was on her death bed, accompanied by his son, then the pastor of the South Church, who at Mrs. Winthrop's request offered prayer in her behalf. She died, 2 Aug. 1725.

"Monday, Aug^t 2; Mrs. Katherine Winthrop, Relict of the hon^{ble} Wait Winthrop esq^r, died Ætatis 61. She was born in September, 1664. 1684.

JEREMIAH BUMSTEAD, son of Thomas and Susanna Bumstead; born in England; died, 27 Feb. 1709, aged 72. By wife Sarah (1684), he had Jeremiah (1700), and Abigail (1701), who married John Lambert.

During the century from 1684 to 1784, five members of this family bearing the name of Jeremiah Bumstead, joined the Old South.

ROGER JUDD, freeman, 1690; had wife Elizabeth. He seems to have been employed in some dependent position by Judge Sewall, who frequently mentions his name. He is remembered now only because of his disorderly withdrawal from the South Church, and his going over to the Episcopal order. Judge Sewall records, June 8, 1688, "in the Even, Capt. Hill and I discourse with Roger Judd and Mrs. Willey." What led to this interview we are not told; but the first King's Chapel was built that year, and Judd's preferences may have already begun to show themselves. Every effort would seem to have been made to convince him as to the duty which he owed to the church with which he had entered into solemn fellowship, and in which his children had been baptized, but to no effect. At length, Jan. 22, 1698-9, he was put out of the church "for his contumacy in refusing to hear the Church and his contemptuous behaviour against the same and Mr. Willard the Pastor." His apology to Judge Sewall was, that he had come into the church by the importunity of Deacon Eliot and others, and that now 'twas his conscience to go to the Church of England." Mr. Willard presented a very full report upon the case to the church, in which he said:

"The matter of offence is not his going off from this church; for we acknowledge there is a lawfulness to do so, provided it was orderly; but y^e manner of it. I know none of any persuasion, but who reckon y^t there is a discipline appointed by Christ in his churches; and a person who is orderly become a member of our church is lyable to be proceeded with in way of discipline in y^t church till he orderly removes his immediate relation to another."

In 1701, Judd became the sexton of King's Chapel.

ANNE COOKE, wife of a Robert Cooke, according to the baptismal register, in which we find, also, Robert and Sarah (1671) Cooke.

ALEXANDER BULMAN, is mentioned in the Memorial History of Boston, in a list of Boston bakers, 1696, and his autograph is given.

JAMES OLIVER, son of Peter Oliver, merchant (1669). Harv. Coll. 1680; married Mercy, daughter of Samuel Bradstreet. Dismissed to the church in Cambridge, where he practised as a physician. Freeman, 1690. He died, 8 April, 1703; his widow died, 29 March, 1710, in her 43rd year.

The Rev. WILLIAM BRATTLE, son of Thomas Brattle (1669), by his wife Elizabeth (Tyng) (1672). Born 22 Nov. 1662. Harv. Coll. 1680; F.R.S. "The learned and pious minister of First Church, Cambridge." He was ordained 25 Nov. 1696, when he took his dismissal from the South Church. He married, 3 Nov. 1697, Elizabeth daughter of Nathaniel Hayman, of Charlestown, and had an only child, William, Harv. Coll. 1722. He died two days after the Rev. Ebenezer Pemberton (1692).

Feb. 15, 1715-6; "The Rev^d M^r William Brattle died last night at midnight. He was a Father to the Students of Harvard College, and a Physician, My Fast Friend. I wish it be not portentous that Two such great Men should fall in one Week! Deus avertat Omen."—Sewall.

Mr. Colman, in his funeral sermon on the two deceased clergymen, preached at the Thursday lecture of the following week, notes that they were life-long friends, Brattle having been Pemberton's tutor.—Eds. Sewall.

MARY DAFFORNE, wife of John Dafforne.

"Perhaps he had been driven away from some frontier settlement in the Indian war and went back. Yet in the great fire of 1760, one of the sufferers was Isaac Dafforne, perhaps a grandson of John."—Savage.

Mrs. Dafforne herself seems to have been in danger in another fire,—that of 1724. Judge Sewall writes on the 11th of August in that year :

"This day I view the desolation by Fire, visited Mrs. Dafforn, who was carried out of her house to M^r Dan^l Oliver's for fear of the Fire." March 26, 1728 ; "Mrs. Mary Dafforne laid in her Grave in the old Burying Place, Æt 78. Bearers, Sewall, Byfield ; Oliver, Capt. Ephraim Savage ; Capt. Ballentine, Deacon Marshall. It seems Mr. Mollat, who married the only daughter, belongs to the old Church ; and the Bearers were equally divided. She was of my Father Hull's privat Meeting, I hope a good Woman ; much Confin'd. I am griev'd I visited her no more, though hindered by my own Sickness and indisposition."—Sewall.

ELIZABETH TUCKER.

Judge Sewall mentions the sudden death, 29 March, 1707, of a Mrs. Tucker, sister of Mrs. Lothrop.

PATIENCE HARKER.

"Ebenezer Harker of Nantucket, married Patience, daughter of Peter Folger, but whether he had issue I know not. His widow married James Gardner."—Savage.

1685.

ABIGAIL ELIOT—DAVIS, daughter of Deacon Jacob (1669) and Mary (1674) Eliot, and wife of William Davis.

Her daughter Abigail (1713) married Henry Lowder. William Davis was probably a son of William, one of the founders of the church.

Feb. 25, 1706-7; "After that, I visit the widow Elliott, who dwells with her daughter Davis."—Sewall.

RUTH EDWARDS—CUNNINGHAM, wife of George Edwards, and afterward of Timothy Cunningham.

In the register of baptisms we find, George, of George and Ruth Edwards, 1685; and Ruth, Hannah and Nathaniel, of Timothy and Ruth Cunningham, in 1689 and later. The baptism of another son, Timothy, we do not find recorded; but we have evidence of his interest in our church, in the bequest of two hundred pounds made by him to it. By the desire of his mother, Mrs. Ruth Cunningham, his elder and only brother, Nathaniel, became the executor of his will; to him, says the record, "the Committee of this Church have made application for the said Legacy, and which he offered to pay, at the same time signifying his desire that the money should be invested in a Bell for the new House now going to be built." A bell was accordingly ordered, and the following inscription was cast upon it: "The Gift of Capt. Timothy Cunningham to the South Church in Boston; who died at Sea, Sept^r 12, 1728." It was cracked while ringing for a fire during a tempest, 23 Sept. 1815; and a new one, "as near the size and sound of y^e old bell as possible," was obtained from London, by a committee of the Old South duly authorized, consisting of Joseph Pierce, Edward Phillips and Josiah Salisbury. It was put up in 1817; and when the church took possession of its new meeting-house on the corner of Boylston and Dartmouth Streets, in 1875, it was transferred to the campanile in which it now hangs. It weighs fifteen hundred pounds, and bears the names of the committee.

If the register of membership were complete, it might appear that both Timothy and Nathaniel Cunningham were members of the South Church, which they both loved. The latter, a man of large wealth, died in London, 7 Sept. 1748, and left to it by his will, sixty ounces of silver, to be made into some proper vessel for the communion table, and £500 for its poor. His son, Nathaniel, married Sarah, daughter of Christopher Kilby; and his daughter, Ruth (1764), married James Otis (bapt. cov. 1756), the orator and patriot. Nathaniel and Sarah (Kilby) Cunningham had two daughters, Susannah and Sarah, and the younger of these had a daughter Elizabeth, who married the seventh Duke of Argyll.

BENJAMIN DAVIS, son of William (1669), by his wife Martha (Pyncheon). Boston, 1670; merchant; major artill. co. 1673; freeman, 1690. He married Sarah, daughter of James Richards, of Hartford.

Aug. 14, 1685; "At night M^r Willard, Eliot Jacob, Rob^t Walker, Frary, Nath. Oliver, Benj. Davis meet here to discourse. Because the two last named desire to come into the Church without making any Relation at all; or having M^r Willard report the Substance of what they said to him." Sept. 13; "Mr. Benj. Davis, Nath^l Oliver, Sam^l Checkly and his wife are received into the Church which is a Sabbath or a sooner than I expected: The Lord's Supper not being to be administered till Oct^r 4th. Sam^l Checkly had most in's Relation; two wear Perriwigs: viz: Davis, Checkly."—Sewall.

Mr. Davis was one of the founders and earliest deacons of Brattle St. Church; and it is worthy of notice in connection with what Sewall here records, that in the organization of that church it was determined, among other matters, "to lay aside the relation of experiences which are imposed in other churches, in order to the admission of persons to the Lord's table."

Nov. 26, 1704; "Major Davis dies of a Flux about 6. in the evening after the Sabbath. I knew not that was sick till about 24 hours before." Nov. 30; "Major Davis buried; Bearers, Elisha Hutchinson esq^r, Sewall, Addington, Foster, Jeffries, Joseph Parson."—Sewall.

NATHANIEL OLIVER, son of Peter (1669). Was one of the committee of safety after the overthrow of Andros, 1689; freeman, 1690, with prefix of respect; among the earliest members of Brattle St. Church; died, 15 April, 1704. His wife was Elizabeth (1683), daughter of Thomas Brattle (1669), whom he married 3 Jan. 1677, and who survived him.

April 15, 1704; "M^r Nathan^l Oliver dieth between 3 and 4 in the morning. He was born 20 days before me." April 18; "Went to the Funeral of M^r Nathan^l Oliver: Bearers, Sewall, Walley; Legg, Duñer; Cooper, ——— Gov^r was there."—Sewall.

SAMUEL CHECKLEY, born at Preston, Northamptonshire, England, 14 Oct. 1653; arrived in Boston, 3 Aug. 1670. During his long life, he filled various places of honor and trust. He received twelve different commissions in the Boston regiment, from that of ensign given by Governor Bradstreet, to a colonelcy by Lieut.-Governor Tailer. Selectman; representative; justice of the peace; county treasurer; town clerk. "In all which Places He behav'd Himself with such Prudence, Meekness and Fidelity as to gain the general Esteem and Love of all acquainted with Him."

In the Boston News Letter (4 Jan. 1739), which announces his death, he is said to have been chosen a deacon in the South Church, 15 Oct. 1693. This is correct, but it is also true that he then refused the office, and that James Hill was chosen, 24 Nov. 1693, in his stead. There is nothing in the church records to show that he was chosen a second time, or that he ever accepted the position; but the following passages in Sewall's Diary, in connection with the obituary notice just mentioned, leave no doubt as to his having served the church for many years in this office.

Lord's Day, Aug. 20, 1710; "M^r Joseph Sewall preaches for M^r Pemberton, from Ps. 73. 28. But it is good for me to draw near unto God: stood a little above an hour. Before we went out of the seat, Maj^r Gen^l congratulated me on account of my Son; said he had done Pie et Docte. In the Afternoon, Mr Pemberton traced much of his Discourse in his Prayer." Aug. 21; "The Deacons come and deliver him 20^s. Col. Checkley very cheerfully congratulated me on account of my Son's very good Sermon. Capt. Hill congratulated me, coming in first."

July 5, 1714; "I went to M^r Pemberton, found M^r Comisary [Belcher] and M^r Bromfield there. They began to speak to me about Deacons, some of ours very old and infirm. M^r Pemberton spake how much Col. Checkley was broken; which I had not observ'd. Mention'd the expediency of adding to their number. Nam'd M^r Daniel Oliver: I said I should like him very well if he would Accept. Then nam'd M^r Sam. Phillips: I said nothing."

Lord's Day, Dec. 6, 1724; "Lord's Su^per. M^r Prince's Text, Cant. 2. 14. * * My Son and Deacon Green were kept at home by the Great Rain and Indisposition. Deacon Checkley Deliver'd the Cup first to Madam Winthrop, and then gave me a Tankard. 'Twas humiliation to me and I think put me to the Blush, to have this injustice done me by a Justice."

Mr. Checkley married Mary, daughter of Joshua Scottow (1669); they had eleven children, only two of whom survived their parents,—Deacon Richard Checkley and the Rev. Samuel Checkley (Harv. Coll. 1715), first minister of the New South Church, Boston. The mother died in 1721; the father, 27 Dec. 1738, in his 86th year.

"His greatest Honour, and for which his memory is Blessed, was his eminent, unaffected and vital Piety."—News Letter.

I said at coming away, This Gentlewoman has been under great Confinement a great while, but now, triumphing in the Grace of God, she says Rehoboth! [Genesis xxvi. 22.] Col. Checkley thanked us for our last Office of Love. Rings and Scarfs."
 —Sewall.

JOHN BOLT.

March 14, 1685; "M^r Jno. Bolt and Jn^o Nichols are received into our Church. M^r Bolt mentioned profane Courses he had been entangled in after Conviction. Relations of both well accepted, being such as gave good hope."—Sewall.

By his will, proved 20 April, 1711, he left twelve pounds, current money of New England, to the poor of the South Church.

JOHN NICHOLS, probably a son-in-law of William Dawes (1669). Ambrose Dawes (1670), in his will, 17 Oct. 1705, appoints his "brother, Mr. John Nichols," and Deacon John Marion, his executors.

1686.

Mary, daughter of Joshua Atwater, married first, Captain John Clark, who died in Barbary, probably a prisoner, says Savage, and secondly, Mr. John Coney. Her sister, Ann, married Jeremiah Dummer; and her daughter, Mary Clark (1701), married the Rev. Ebenezer Pemberton, third minister of the South Church.

April 12, 1726; "Dyed Mrs. Conney, y^e goldsmith's widow."—Bumstead.

"Mrs. Mary Atwater, a person of great prudence and Piety, and good education; First Mr. John Clark married her, by whom she had her eldest Daughter Mary; first Pemberton and now Campbell. When she was a Widow, M^r John Coney married her, being a Widower, by whom he had four daughters. M^r Coney died more than three years ago; and now his widow Mrs. Mary Coney died somewhat suddenly on Tuesday morning April 12. [1726] and was inter'd in one of the new Combs of the South-burying place; Bearers, Sam. Sewall, John Clark esq^r; Sam. Brown esq^r, Thomas Fitch esq^r; Sam. Checkley esq^r, Capt. John Ballantine. Was buried from her laughter Bromfields. His Honor the Lieut Gov^r [Dummer] follow'd his Aunt as a Mourner and his Lady. Thus death, by its regardless stroke, mows down all before it, making no distinction between our most prudent and Charming Friends, and others."—Sewall.

The daughter, from whose house the funeral took place, was Abigail, wife of the second Edward Bromfield (1729); their daughter Abigail (1756), was the wife of the first leacon William Phillips (1756).

MEHETABEL LILLIE, youngest daughter of Deacon Theophilus Frary (1669), and wife of Samuel Lillie. Her children seem to have inherited the property of their Aunt, Hannah Belcher (1682), who had no children of her own.

HANNAH DAWES, daughter of John (1669) and Elizabeth (1670) Morse, and wife of Jonathan Dawes. Her husband was a son of William Dawes (1669), a bricklayer and a householder, and a member of the church (1680) under the baptismal covenant. Mr. Quincy's will was witnessed by Jacob Eliot and Theophilus Frary, the deacons of the South Church at that time, and by Samuel Sewall.

On the 28th July, 1689, John, son of Daniel and Hannah Quincy, was baptized, probably by the Rev. Mr. Willard. Against the entry there is a note, dated 10 Sept. 1839, in the handwriting of the Rev. George W. Blagden (1836), saying, that the Hon. John Quincy Adams had told him that this was the record of the baptism of his great grandfather.

HANNAH ELIOT—FAIRWEATHER—CLARK, daughter of Deacon Jacob Eliot (1669), and wife of Thomas Fairweather (bapt. cov. 1719): he was a son of John Fairweather, "a very noted citizen," who had been selectman, commissioner and captain of the Castle at the time of the overthrow of Andros, and who, says Sewall, in recording his death, 14 April, 1712, was "a good Christian Member of the old Church."

MARY WEBSTER, daughter of Ambrose (1670) and Mary (Bumstead) Dawes, and wife of James Webster, probably eldest son of James, a brewer.

Coll. 1696), was minister of Weymouth, and married Hannah Curwen. He afterward came to the New North Church, Boston, as colleague pastor with the Rev. John Webb.

JOHN MARSHALL, was dismissed to the church in Braintree.

John Marshall by wife Ruth had John, a mason, of Braintree, who kept a valuable Diary, now in the possession of the Massachusetts Historical Society. Was probably the freeman of 1671, and died, Nov. 1672. His son John married, 12 May, 1690, Mary, widow of Jonathan Mills, and daughter of Edmund Sheffield, and had a daughter Deborah.

PETER SERGEANT, a prominent merchant and citizen, came from London, 1677; was a strenuous opponent of Andros, and one of the committee of safety at the time of his overthrow. Freeman, 1690, and of the council. "He built the noble mansion afterward known as the Province House, where successive governors dwelt and ruled." He was married four times: first, to Elizabeth, daughter of George Corwin; second, to Elizabeth (1694), daughter of Henry Shrimpton; third, to the Lady Mary Phips, widow of Sir William Phips; fourth, to Mehetabel (1697), widow of Thomas Cooper. He took an active interest in the affairs of the South Church, and was chosen an overseer of seats in 1699.

There is an historic connection between the South Church and Mr. Sergeant's mansion, as will be seen from the following entry in Sewall's Diary :

Friday, Novemb^r 21, 1690; "M^r Sam^l Willard, M^r Edw. Rawson, Capt. Joshua Scottow, Deacon Jacob Eliot, Deacon Theophilus Frary and Samuel Sewall met together at said Sewall's House in Boston. Major General Winthrop was twice married; his first wife was Mary (1690), daughter of William Browne, of Salem; his second, Katharine (1683), daughter of Thomas Brattle (1669), and widow of John Eyre (1683).

REBECCA ADAMS, daughter of James Andrews, and wife of Jonathan Adams. Dorcas Andrews (1677) was her mother; and her sisters Dorcas and Jane were members under the baptismal covenant.

DANIEL OLIVER, youngest son of Peter (1669) and Sarah (1674) Oliver; married Elizabeth (1707), daughter of the Hon. Andrew Belcher (1697). Freeman, 1690; deputy and justice.

Judge Sewall's third wife, Mary (1693), widow of Robert Gibbs, was a granddaughter of Peter Oliver (1669), and consequently a niece of Daniel; and the Judge, who placed a high estimate on all family ties, whether lineal or marital, speaks in his later journals of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Oliver as uncle and aunt.

Mr. Oliver took an active interest in the South Church. In 1725, he and Edward Bromfield (1698) were chosen trustees, with the deacons, of "the evangelical fund." When it had been determined by the brethren, 1728, by a vote of forty-one to twenty, to build a new meeting house, he was a member of the committee "to survey the land belonging to this church, to consider of the most convenient place to set the House upon, to draw a Projection of the Building, and compute the cost." He was chosen treasurer of the building committee, but declined to serve. He was also on the committee with Colonel Fitch (1691), Mr. Secretary Willard (1701) and others, to provide a temporary place of worship for the church and congregation; the "Old Brick" was hospitably opened to them by the First Church, and was occupied by the two congregations jointly for nearly two years.

Mr. Oliver had a son, Daniel, baptized by Mr. Pemberton, 16 Jan. 1703-4, Harv. Coll. 1722, M.A. 1725, who died of small pox in London, 5 July, 1727, "as he was finishing his travels and returning to his friends and country." He was a young man of much promise; and Mr. Prince preached and published a discourse after his death entitled, "Young Abel dead yet speaketh." Mr. Prince also preached funeral sermons on both the parents, on the honored father (at the public lecture), who died 23 July, 1732, aged 69, and on the mother, in 1735.

Two of these youths belonged to South Church families.

WILLIAM MANLY, of Weymouth; soldier in Turner's company, 1675; perhaps removed to Boston, and was freeman of 1690.—Savage. He and his wife were among those who sustained the neighborhood prayer meetings in which Judge Sewall took such a deep interest.

Dec. 17, 1717; "At the privat Meeting at Bro' Manly's I was so hoarse with my Cold, that I got Bro' Franklin to set the Tune, which he did very well." Feb. 3, 1719-20; "Great Rain. His eldest son, John, who had a good estate, was of Charlestown, married, 12 Nov. 1713, Margaret, daughter of Col. Thomas Savage, third of that name, and died, 30 Sept. 1761. He founded the Alford Professorship at Harvard College, and gave large sums to the Society for Propagating the Gospel among the Indians. —Savage. Benjamin Alford and Benjamin Davis (1685) were brothers-in-law, and the latter was an executor of the former.

H., and in that Province was collector of the customs and secretary, and Judge of Supreme Court, but came back to Boston, and died 1724." —Savage. This last date is incorrect, as Judge Sewall writes that he visited him in his sick room 6 Dec. 1725.

SIMEON STODDARD, son of Anthony; freeman, 1670; councillor; an intimate friend of Judge Sewall. His first wife, Mary (1686), died in 1708. In 1709, he married Elizabeth, widow of Col. Samuel Shrimpton; she died 17 April, 1713, after long languishing, says Judge Sewall.

His third wife was Mehetabel Minot (1697), who had previously been the wife of Thomas Cooper and Peter Sergeant (1689). He took an active interest in the affairs of the South Church. He was on the committee to sell the land left by Richard Taylor in 1699, and on the committee to build a parsonage in 1705. He died in 1730; and the funeral sermon preached by the Rev. Benjamin Colman, entitled Dying in Peace in a Good Old Age, is in the Prince Library.

There was an Anthony Stoddard who was very prominent in the affairs of the church from 1721 to 1746, but whose name does not appear on the list of admissions. He was a son of Simeon, born 24 Sept. 1678; Harv. Coll. 1697; married Martha (1706), daughter of the Hon. Andrew Belcher (1697). He served for several years on the auditing committees, and he seems to have been interested no less in the spiritual than in the temporal welfare of the church. The last committee on which he served had for its object the revival and maintenance of discipline in co-operation with the pastor and deacons.

ROBERT GIBBS, son of Robert, who came of a good Warwickshire family, was a noted merchant in Boston, and built a handsome house on Fort Hill which the son inherited. The latter married Mary Shrimpton (1693), who became the third wife of Judge Sewall.

JOHN KILBY, had wife Rebecca, who was probably a daughter of Pilgrim Simpkins, by his second wife Katharine (1678). He was afterward a deacon in Brattle St. Church. His son, Christopher Kilby, became a very prominent citizen.¹ He was a merchant, in partnership, first, with the Hon. William Clark (of the North Church), whose daughter Sarah (bapt. cov. 1727) he married, and then, with his brother-in-law, Benjamin Clark (1724). He went to England in 1739, on a special mission from the House of Representatives, of which he was a member; and he resided there for many years as standing agent of the Province. In 1757, he came to Boston with the Earl of Loudoun, and a dinner was given to him in Concert Hall. In recognition of his money subscriptions and other manifestations of interest after the fire of 1760, Mackerel Lane, when widened and improved, was named Kilby Street. He returned to England in 1763, laid out a fine estate at Dorking, Surrey, and died, 1771, leaving a very large property. His daughter, Sarah, married Nathaniel, son of Captain Nathaniel Cunningham.

ABIGAIL BUTTOLPH—BELKNAP, second wife of the second Joseph Belknap (1688), who died in 1716. Their daughter, Elizabeth, married Capt. Benjamin Russell.

¹ Mr. Charles W. Tuttle says that Christopher Kilby was born 25 May, 1705. His baptism is not recorded, as is that of the other children of John and Rebecca Kilby; but we find a Christopher, of John Kilby, under date of 10 Dec. 1693, and a Christopher, of Christopher Kilby, 24 July, 1692.

BETHIA WHARTON, daughter of Richard Wharton, a member of the council of Sir Edmund Andros whom he opposed. He was in England with Judge Sewall, and died there 14 May, 1689. His first wife was Bethia, daughter of William Tyng. She was a member of the church under the baptismal covenant (1671), and so was Martha (1679), daughter of John Winthrop, Jr., whom Richard Wharton married after 1677.

THOMAS FITCH, "a very distinguished citizen; he was colonel of the Boston Regiment, captain [1708, 1720, 1725] of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, representative and councillor for nearly twenty years. His name is also closely connected with Boston Common." —Eds. Sewall. He married Abiah (1696), daughter of the Rev. Samuel Danforth, of Roxbury, and had sons Thomas, Samuel and John, all of whom seem to have died before him. His daughter, Mary (1722), was the first wife of Andrew Oliver (1752), afterward Lieutenant Governor.

Col. Fitch is frequently mentioned in the records of the South Church. He was on the following committees: to audit the accounts; to build a parsonage, 1705; to provide a temporary place of worship, 1728; to fix the tenure and condition of holding pews, 1729. In 1731, he presented the church with a new set of flagons for the communion table. He died, 23 June, 1736.

The Rev. EBENEZER PEMBERTON, third minister of the South Church, son of James Pemberton (1669), one of the founders, was baptized by the first minister, the Rev. Thomas Thacher, 11 Feb. 1672. He graduated at Harv. Coll. 1691, and continuing to reside in Cambridge, was, after some years, chosen fellow of the house, or tutor. He was ordained minister of the South Church, as colleague with Mr. Willard, 28 Aug. 1700; and after a successful ministry of seventeen years, died, 13 Feb. 1717.

"He was a man of eminent talents and great acquirements, and had the reputation of as accomplished a preacher as this country ever produced * * * He was master of logic and oratory in great perfection. The college never had a more accomplished tutor, nor one that more applied himself to teach and watch over the morals of it. His piety was of a decided character, producing, habitually, strong conviction of the reality of things invisible and eternal, and 'a zeal which flamed' in his master's cause. His temperament was uncommonly ardent; which, when properly regulated, gave to his performances a peculiar energy and power; but which sometimes proved a great infirmity,—his passions, when suddenly excited, becoming impetuous and violent * * * Through life, Mr Pemberton was a diligent student and a laborious minister. His constitution was always feeble, and during several of his last years, he was greatly afflicted with severe bodily pain; but under weakness and suffering, he continued to do much in his appropriate and loved employment. He preached his last sermon on the 20th of January, 1716-7, from Matt. xxii. 5, 'But they made light of it, and went their way, one to his farm and another to his merchandize.'"—Wiser.

Feb. 8, 1716-7; "Mr Pemberton is very sick; I visit him in his little Bed-room next the Study." Feb. 11; "A number of the Church meet at Mr Sewall's and pray for Mr Pemberton. Mr Wadsworth, Dr Cotton Mather, Mr Colman, Mr Webb, Mr Cooper, Mr Sewall in the West-Room. Psal 41. 1-4 Sung Windsor Tune." Feb. 13; "Susan brings word that Mr Pemberton had a good night, was much better. Yet afternoon was sent for to him as approaching his end. When came was finishing his Will. Then I went in to Him: He call'd me to sit down by him, held me by the hand and spake pertinently to me, though had some difficulty to hear him. M^r Sewall pray'd fervently, and quickly after he expired, bolstered up in his Bed, about 3-4 past 3. afternoon in the best Chamber. The Lord sanctify it to me and to all. My Son writ a letter to D^r Cotton Mather to preach for him, and before 'twas superscrib'd, he came in which took as a Token for good." Feb. 18; "Great Storm of Snow; yet good going under foot. M^r Pemberton is buried between 4 and 5. in M^r Willard's Tomb. Bearers, M^r John Leverett, presid^t, D^r Cotton Mather; M^r Wadsworth, Colman; M^r Sewall, Webb; D^r Increase Mather, Maj^r Gen^l Winthrop. Col. Hutchinson not there, by which means it fell to me to wait on his Excellency: Twas good going, a broad path being made. Col. Lynde of Charlestown was there." Feb. 21; "Extraordinary Storm of Snow; yet many Men at Lecture to hear M^r Colman preach the Funeral Sermon of M^r Pemberton and M^r Brattle, from Jno. 9, 4. Compar'd M^r Pemberton to Elijah; M^r Brattle to Moses."—Sewall.

Mr. Pemberton married Mary (1701), daughter of Capt. John Clark and his wife Mary (Atwater) (1686), afterward Mrs. Coney. His son, the Rev. Ebenezer (1725), was, during the latter part of his life, minister of the Second Church, Boston.

DORCAS GRECIAN, wife of Anthony Grecian.

At the time of Sir Edmund Andros's high handed proceedings, Sewall records, 22 June, 1688:

Jan. 5, 1713-4; "I go to the Funeral of Capt. Bennet's daughter Butler; is said to be the most desirable of his daughters, but about 25 or 6. years old."—Sewall.

The Editors of Sewall point out that there were at least two John Bennetts in Boston at this time. Savage says:

"John Bennett, Boston, 1675, mariner, son of Samuel, but when he was born or died, or where his father resided, is unknown."

SARAH WALLEY—CHAUNCY—WILLOUGHBY, born 1675; daughter of the Hon. John Walley (1679), and wife of Charles Chauncy (1708). He died in 1711, and she then married Francis Willoughby.

He married Anne (1706), only surviving child of Dr. Samuel Bradstreet, son of Gov. Bradstreet (1680). He died, 10 Jan. 1737-8, and the Rev. Thomas Prince, in his funeral sermon, spoke of him as "being born of pious parents (Aug. 25, 1675), his father a deacon of this Church, and mother a sister of the late Honorable Daniel Oliver, Esq." He added:

"At fourteen years of age (July, 1689), he entered the School of the Prophets. He was ordained an Evangelist in the College Hall, for one of the West India Islands (1698), but the climate not agreeing with his constitution he soon returned to this his native city." From being a private teacher, he went into the "Public and Free Grammar School of this great town (1703), the principal school of the British Colonies, if not of all America. In this school he continued about thirty years. He also studied and practised physic."

He was on the committee, in 1717, to inform the Rev. Thomas Prince of his election to the pastorate, and he seems to have occasionally supplied the pulpit of the South Church.

He left a son, Benjamin, who joined the Third Church 1720.

JOSIAH FRANKLIN,
ABIAH FRANKLIN.

"Josiah Franklin was a native of the village of Ecton, in Northamptonshire, in England, and, in consequence of the persecutions to which the nonconformists were exposed, emigrated to this country in 1685. Abiah, whose maiden name was Folger, was from Nantucket, and became the second wife of Josiah, after his settlement in Boston. Four sons and four daughters were born of this marriage, Benjamin being the youngest son. The father died in 1744, at the age of 89; the mother in 1752, at the age of 85."—Everett.

Josiah Franklin was first a member under the baptismal covenant, 1685, and so was Abiah Folger, who received adult baptism 19 Aug. 1688. After their marriage, they lived for many years on a small estate near the South

Meeting House, belonging to Nathaniel Reynolds, on which Simeon Stoddard (1691) held a mortgage. Here their distinguished son was born, and from hence he was taken across the street, 6 Jan. 1706, to be baptized by Mr. Willard or Mr. Pemberton.

In 1712, the family moved to a house at the corner of Union and Hanover Streets, bought of Peter Sergeant (1689).

April 29, 1713; "I go to the Meeting at M^r Franklin's. Pray, read M^r Doolittle's Morning Lecture about Leading of the Spirit." Aug. 28, 1717; "Read an Excellent Sermon at M^r Franklin's about Communion with God; Sung the 4th part of the 73^d Psalm. Pray'd."—Swall.

When Judge Sewall's voice began to fail him, in 1718, he wanted Mr. Franklin to take the præcentorship. When Mr. Green and Mr. Henchman were chosen deacons, in 1719, several votes were cast for Mr. Franklin.

Jan 17, 1744-5; "Last night died M^r Josiah Franklin, tallow chandler and soapmaker: By the force of a steady Temperance, he had made a Constitution, none of the strongest, last with comfort to the age of Eighty-seven years; and by an entire Dependence on his Redeemer, and a constant course of the strictest Piety and virtue, he was enabled to die, as he lived, with cheerfulness, leaving a numerous posterity the honour of being descended from a person, who thro' a long life supported the character of an honest man."—News Letter.

On the monument erected over the remains of Josiah and Abiah Franklin, by their youngest son, are these words: "He was a pious and prudent man; she a discreet and virtuous woman."

OLIVER NOYES, son of John (1675) and Sarah (1670) (Oliver) Noyes. Harv. Coll. 1695. Among his class-

A proposition was made in 1710, by Oliver Noyes, Daniel Oliver, James Barnes, John George, John Gerrish and Anthony Stoddard, to build a wharf where Long Wharf now is. At a town meeting in 1716, a committee was appointed to consider the expediency of erecting a market house, consisting of Addington Davenport, Thomas Fitch, Elisha Cooke, Oliver Noyes and Samuel Keeling.—Drake.

June 12, 1698; "Mrs. Elizabeth Jeffries dieth, and the shop of her Father, Mr John Usher, is shut up upon it. It is affecting that an only child should be snatched away so soon. Has left 8 children."—Sewall.

MARY BRATTLE, joined by letter of dismissal from the church in Marblehead; daughter of John Legg of that town, and wife of Edward Brattle. Her husband's name does not appear on the list of church members; but as we find there the names of his father (1669), his brother, William (1684), and his three sisters (1683 and 1689), as well as of his wife, and as we know the list to be imperfect, it is quite probable that he also was a member.

JOHN CLOUGH,
MARY CLOUGH.

He owned the land where the Hotel Boylston now stands; and what is now Tremont Street, between Boylston and Hollis Streets, is called Clough Street in Price's map of 1743.

There was a John Clough among the founders of the New South Church in 1717, and also of the Hollis Street Church in 1730.

JOHN GEORGE, "a worthy merchant" of Boston, and one of the founders of Brattle St. Church. He married Lydia (1695) Lee, who was afterward the wife of Dr. Cotton Mather.

Fitch, Dan^l Oliver; Jn^o Colman, Grove Hirst. Was a Well-accomplish'd merchant, and appears to have been a good Christian, desirable, usefull man. All the ministers had scarvs."—Sewall.

JABESH, or JABEZ SALTER, son of William Salter (1669); sea-captain.

ELIZABETH JACKSON, may have been daughter of John Jackson, house-wright.

JANE TAPPAN, daughter of Jacob and Hannah (Sewall) Tappan, and niece of Judge Sewall, in whose family she lived for many years. In one of the prayers recorded in his Diary, he says: "Requite the Labor of Love of my Kinswoman, Jane Tappin, Give her health, find out Rest for her." In a letter to the Rev. Edward Taylor, he mentions that Mr. Bartholomew Green is likely to marry Mrs. Jane Tapp[an], 30 Nov. [1709]; and in the Diary, August, 1710, and later, she is spoken of as cousin Jane Green. Her husband was elected deacon, 1719; after his death, 1732, the church voted some money (27 March, 1734) to Mrs. Jane Green, wife of Bartholomew Green, late deacon, on account of loss by fire.

ANDREW BELCHER, son of Andrew, the emigrant; of Cambridge, Hartford and Boston; one of the committee of safety at the time of the insurrection against Andros, and a councillor.

His first wife was Sarah, daughter of Jonathan Gilbert, marshal of the colony of Connecticut; his second was Hannah (1682), widow of Isaac Walker (1674), and daughter of Deacon Frary (1669). Several of his children were members of the South Church.

Nov. 6, 1717; "Midweek, Capt. Belcher Buried. Bearers, L^d Gov^r Dummer, Col. Hutchinson; Sewall, Eliakim Hutchinson; Addington Davenport, Col. Fitch esq^r. Scarfs, Rings, Gloves, Escutcheons. What three sad Wednesdays have these been!" [Sewall's son in law, Grove Hirst, had been buried on the Wednesday preceding, and his wife, Judith, on the Wednesday before that.] Dec. 8; "Lord's Day. P.m. M^r Jonathan Belcher comes to the Assembly and very pathetically acknowledges God's distinguishing mercy towards him."—Sewall.

Many years after (7 July, 1748), this same son, Jonathan (1706), then Governor of New Jersey, wrote thus of his father to the Rev. Thomas Prince :

"My Father was as great a Genius as his Country could boast of, but wanted an Education to Improve and polish it. Governor Dudley (who was a good Judge) used to say that M^r Commissary Belcher would make a good Minister of State to any Prince in Europe, Especially in the Article of Finance. His late Farewell and Blessing of me show'd his strong thoughts and great modesty. Its fresh in my Memory and will be till the Frost of Age seals up that Faculty ; he called me to his Bedside, took me by the hand and said—Son you may expect me to bless you in a better manner and style than I am able to do, for God did not put it into your Grandfather's power to give me the Education he Inabled me to give you, but remember my Last Words to you are—May the Blessing of the God of Abraham and the God of Isaac and the God of Jacob rest upon you and your seed for Ever. Amen. Farewell. Neither the Patriarchs nor Apostles could have done it better."

Mr. Belcher left a legacy of £500 for the uses of the South Church.

His wife, Silence, died 8 June, 1744, aged 78.—Eds. Sewall.

Their son, Jacob, baptized just after his father's death, 1 Dec. 1700, Harv. Coll. 1720, was ordained first minister of the Third Church, Lebanon, Conn., 26 Nov. 1729, and died, 12 April, 1766.

BENJAMIN EMMONS, son of Benjamin and Mary (1674). He took dismission to "the Old Church,"—the First—of which, when his wife died in 1740, it was said she had been a member for forty years. She was Mary, daughter of Captain Simon Amory; he, "a worthy gentleman, member of the First Church."

SUSANNA BAILEY—THACHER, daughter of Richard Wilkins, wife and widow of the Rev. John Bailey, and then second wife of the Rev. Peter Thacher (1673), of Milton. She married Mr. Thacher, 25 Dec. 1699, and died, 4 Sept. 1724, aged 59.

ELIZABETH DAVIS. Perhaps this should read Elizabeth Lavis, wife of William (1693).

EDWARD BROMFIELD, born at Haywood House, Hants, England, bred a merchant in London, went to Jamaica, came to Boston, 1675. For many years was a member of the council. The late Bromfield House marked the site of his mansion. He was a trustee of the "Evangelical Treasury" of the church; "a gentleman of great integrity and singular piety." He died, 2 June, 1734, aged 85. His first wife was Elizabeth, daughter of James Brading; she had only Elizabeth (1700), who died unmarried, 1718. His second wife (4 June, 1683) was Mary (Danforth) (1696), granddaughter of the Rev. John Wilson of the First Church. Their son, Edward Bromfield (1729), was also a very useful member of the South Church. Their grandson, Edward Bromfield (1741), Harv. Coll. 1742, died in 1746; of this young man it has been said:

"He lived long enough to develop a character and to exhibit tastes and talents which have embalmed his name in the memory of succeeding generations, and he might have achieved great distinction in science if his life had been spared."—Lovering.

There is a portrait of him, after John Smibert (1730), in the possession of the Bostonian Society.

FRANCIS BURROUGHS.

Dec. 10, 1713; "M^r Francis Burroughs buried after Lecture. Bearers, M^r Winthrop, Townsend; Belcher, Bromfield; Checkley, Ballantine. He is Lamented as having been an intelligent Exemplary Christian. Buried in M^r Heath's Tomb, New burying place."—Sewall.

This was the merchant from London, whom John Dunton found here, and who furnished the necessary security that Dunton should not "be chargeable to the town." He married here, as his second wife, 29 Dec. 1709, Elizabeth (Gross), widow of ——— Heath. His daughter, Sarah, married Captain John Brown, of Salem.—Eds. Sewall.

JOHN CAMPBELL.

"The Boston News-Letter, the first anglo-American newspaper, appeared on Monday, April 24, 1704, and continued to be published until 1776, on the evacuation of Boston by the British troops. Its first publisher and proprietor was John Campbell, a bookseller, and also postmaster, in which last office he continued till his death in 1728. Nicholas Boone was associate publisher. Bartholomew Green, John Allen, and again Green, were successively its printers."—Eds. Sewall.

"Campbell was not a brilliant genius. He wrote little, and that awkwardly and with effort. His patrons were few and sparing, and he wrestled with them continually on account of their delinquencies. The London newspapers were then in the early summer of their prosperity, and the News Letter was largely dependent on them, though it copied little of their enterprise or spirit."—Goddard.

Mr. Campbell's daughter, Sarah, married James Bowdoin, and died in 1713, in her 26th year; the father died, 4 March, 1728, aged 75.

ELIZABETH GOOSE.

Isaac Goose, son of Peter and Susanna Vertigoose, Vergoose or Goose, married for his second wife, Elizabeth (Foster), by whom he had a daughter, Elizabeth (1728), who married Thomas Fleet, the printer.

1700.

JOHN ADAMS; this is probably the man of whose death in Nov. 1702, Judge Sewall twice speaks. Nov. 2; "John Adams, a very good man," dies of the small pox. Dec. 8; "His death [that of Mr. Robert Gibbs (1691)], and the death of Jn^o Adams, the Master, Isaac Loring, and Peybody, is a great stroke to our church and congregation."

JOHN POOLE, son of William; merchant; married Elizabeth (1677), daughter of Governor Brenton.

He married, 1704, Elizabeth Bridges; 1726, Bethia Sherrar; 1729, Sarah Howard; but we do not find any one of these names in the roll of membership. His daughter, Elizabeth, wife of John Bullfinch, joined the church 1727, and his son, Jeremiah, 1730. He kept a diary for the years 1722-27, which the late Mr. S. F. Haven edited, and which was printed in the New Eng. Hist. and Gen. Register of 1862, with the following introduction :

"The writer seems to have been a mechanic in moderate circumstances, but blessed with numerous and very respectable 'Citizens.' He was a staunch and active member of the Old South Church,—attending all the extra services, and faithfully noting the name of the preacher and the text of his discourse. He appears not to have been ambitious of office, and when chosen tything-man, or constable, obtained his release on the plea of 'having no hand except his own,' or by paying the fine.

JOHN ADAMS,
HANNAH ADAMS.

Brought letters from the church in Braintree. John Adams, merchant, son of Joseph of Braintree, married Hannah, daughter of Christopher Webb; and secondly, Hannah, daughter of Anthony Checkley. It was the latter who became a member of the South Church. By his first wife, John Adams had Hannah (1707), John, and Samuel (1706), father of Samuel (1789), the patriot. He was grand-uncle of John Adams, the second President of the United States.

ELIZABETH SAVAGE, probably Elizabeth, daughter of Francis Norton, of Charlestown, who married, first, Timothy Symmes; and secondly, Ephraim Savage (1672), as his third wife.

April 13, 1710; "Capt. Ephraim Savage's wife dyes, about an hour after Lecture, to our great Surprise. She was at our Meeting at Capt. Hill's." April 16; "About Sunset Mrs. Elizabeth Savage is buried. Bearers, Winthrop, Sewall; Addington, Sergeant; Walley, Belchar."—Sewall.

MATTHIAS SMITH,
ELIZABETH SMITH.

Matthias Smith kept a tavern not far from Judge Sewall's house. An Indian preacher arriving from Sandwich on his way to Natick, the Judge says : "Bespeak a Lodging for him at Matthias Smith's : but after they sent me word they could not doe it. So I was fain to lodg him in my Study." See an interesting foot-note in the third volume of the Diary, pp. 212, 213.

JOSIAH WILLARD, son of the Rev. Samuel Willard (1677), by his second wife, Eunice (Tyng) (1681). Baptized 29 May, 1681 ; Harv. Coll. 1698. After graduation, he became a tutor at the college, pursued study in divinity and began to preach, but in consequence of an unconquerable diffidence he soon relinquished the ministerial profession. He travelled abroad, and is said to have commanded a vessel at one time in the London trade. He was twice taken by privateers in West India waters, and was imprisoned at Martinique. After his return home, he became secretary of the Province, and held this position for forty years. His first wife was Catharine Allen (1711), who died in 1725, "much lamented"; his second, Hannah, widow of William Clark (1704). He died, 6 Dec. 1756; and the funeral sermons preached by his pastors, Dr. Sewall and Mr. Prince, show the estimate in which he was held both in state and church. After referring to his long service as secretary, as a member of the council, and as Judge of Probate, Dr. Sewall said :

"He discharged the Duties of these important offices with a laudable Capacity, great Diligence and Integrity, as a good and faithful Servant of God, his King and Country ;" and he added : "This Flock of Christ, of which his excellent Father was an able and faithful Pastor, is bereaved of an exemplary and faithful Christian, who walk'd humbly and closely with God, in a firm Adherance to the Doctrines and Precepts of the Gospel : One that was zealous for the Day and House of the Lord, and constant in his Attendance on the public Worship, even when his bodily Infirmities might urge him to spare himself."

Mr. Prince, in a sermon on the Character of Caleb, said :

“ His Father was a Reverend, pious and learned Pastor of this Church for near Thirty Years, and as highly esteemed and beloved both in the Town and Land for his eminent Grace Wisdom Goodness and Usefulness, I suppose, as any in his Day. His Grandfather was one of the religious and courageous Councillors of the ancient Massachusetts Colony. Nor may I forget his Mother, because she was a Gentlewoman of Piety, help'd to form his Youth for Public Service ; and liv'd to see him to her great Joy answering all her Cares, advanced to his Place of Publick Honour, and to receive from him the grateful Returns of his most tender and filial Affection towards her. She was also a Daughter of another of our religious Councillors. And if all these had not been noted in their Day for Piety ; I should not have mentioned them. But the Memory of the Just is Blessed.”

NATHANIEL SHANNON.

Sept. 5, 1723 ; “ On Tuesday Morning, the 27th of August, Died here (after a long and languishing Illness) Nathaniel Shannon, Esq. Aged 68 Years, who upwards of 22 Years, faithfully discharged the Duty of Naval-Officer in this Port ; and was decently Inter'd on the 28th.”—News Letter.

Ebenczer Pemberton (1692), the third minister of the South Church; and after his death she became the wife, first of ——— Campbell, and then of Mr. Henry Lloyd of Long Island, father of Dr. James Lloyd.

SIMEON STODDARD, son of Simeon (1691), by his wife Mary (1686); baptized 22 Oct. 1682. The following sermon is in the library of the Massachusetts Historical Society:

"The Just Man's Prerogative, a sermon preached privately Sept. 27, 1706, on a Solemn Occasion; for the Consolation of a Sorrowful Family, mourning over the Immature Death of a Pious Son, viz, M^r Simeon Stoddard, who was found Barbarously Murdered, in Chelsea-Fields near London, May, 14, 1706. By S. Willard . . . Boston, N. E. Printed by B. Green. Sold by Nicholas Boone at his Shop, 1706." 16 mo. pp. 28.

It contains no information about Mr. Stoddard, or the circumstances of his death.—Eids. Scwall. The mother died 13 Aug. 1708.

ANDREW ELIOT, son of Andrew of Beverly, merchant; married Ruth Symonds, of Beverly; had Samuel, a bookseller and stationer, "a man of good esteem"; Ruth; and Andrew, Harv. Coll. 1737, "eminent as a patriot and divine," minister of the New North Church, Boston.

He was a member of the artill. co., and when Judge Sewall was elected captain, in 1701, he was chosen ensign, Thomas Fitch (1691), first sergeant, Oliver Noyes (1693), second sergeant, Habijah Savage (1708), third sergeant, and Charles Chauncy (1708), fourth sergeant. The Rev. Mr. Pemberton preached the sermon that year, so that altogether it was a South Church occasion. Among other pleasantries uttered by Judge Sewall, in his speech of thanks, was this, that "the savages were souldiers ex Traduce."

March 8, 1720-1; "1.st Col. Thomas Savage was entombed. The Regiment were under Arms; was a Led-Horse. Bearers, Thomas Hutchinson esq^r, David Jeffries Esq^r; M^r Samuel Greenwood, M^r John Pitts of the North. But few Gentlewomen follow'd. 1704.

ARTHUR MASON, a baker, lived in School Street. He married Joanna (1674), daughter of Nicholas Parker, who survived him. His daughter Joanna (baptismal covenant, 1680), was celebrated by Dunton as being "the very Flower of Boston"; she married, first, Robert Breck, and then, Michael Perry. His son, Arthur, married Mary (1720?), daughter of Sampson Stoddard. Arthur Mason died, 4 March, 1708, aged 77 years.

March 6, 1707-8; "Going up the prison Lane I met M^r Sergeant, who told me of M^r Arthur Mason's Funeral, which I knew nothing of before; neither did I suspect it; thinking it would be defer'd till next week for sake of M^r Norton and his wife."—Sewall.

Mary Mason, the eldest daughter, was the wife of the Rev. John Norton, of Hingham.

WILLIAM CLARK. Judge Sewall mentions William Clark of the South Church, and William Clark of the North Church, to distinguish them from each other. Both were leading merchants. The former died before 1726, and his widow, Hannah, married the Hon. Josiah Willard (1701).¹ The latter may be appropriately mentioned in these pages, as his son Benjamin joined this church, in 1724, and many of his descendants—Masons, Phillipses and Walleys—became prominent in it. The Hon. William Clark, merchant, representative, councillor,— “Lived in the largest, most elaborately finished and furnished house in Boston. It was a brick structure, standing on Clark’s Square, so called, next to the mansion afterward occupied by Governor Hutchinson. It was subsequently owned and occupied by Sir Henry Frankland, and is celebrated in one of Cooper’s novels.”—Tuttle.

He died in 1742. His daughter, Sarah, married Christopher Kilby, the distinguished man of that name; and his son, Benjamin (1724), married Miriam, daughter of Christopher (1695) and Sarah Kilby.

There was another William Clark, shipmaster and merchant, who died in 1710, and therefore could not have been the William Clark of the South Church referred to by Sewall as late as 1720. His widow, Mary, became the third wife of Governor Gurdon Saltonstall, of Conn., and she must have been the Mary Saltonstall, by whose will proved 16 Jan. 1729, one hundred pounds were given to the Overseers of the Poor for the poor of Boston, and twenty pounds “to the poor of the now Old South Church,” “to be disposed of at the discretion of the said Church.” “Deborah, Philisia, Negro-servants of Madam Saltonstall,” were baptized 24 July, 1726. The baptismal

In 1706, she married William Tilly (1674), who died in 1717; and, 29 Oct. 1719, she married Judge Sewall as his second wife, but they lived together only seven months, for she died, very suddenly, 26 May, 1720.

On the next Sunday, Habijah, son of Habijah and Hannah Savage, was baptized.

SAMUEL BASS, a tanner in Water Street, probably on part of the site now occupied by the Post Office. Had wife Christian (1717); their daughter, Christian (1741), married John Armstrong (1789), who was the father of Samuel Turell Armstrong (1815), deacon, lieut. governor, acting governor.

THOMAS DAWES, son of Ambrose (1670), and grandson of William (1669); born 1 Nov. 1680; by trade a mason and builder. He married Sarah Story (1703), and died suddenly, 17 March, 1750. Several of his children became members of the Third Church. His son, Story Dawes (baptismal covenant, 1736), to whom the home in Sudbury Street descended, became a member of the West Church, during the ministry of the Rev. William Hooper.

ELISHA STORY, came from England about 1700, with his sister Sarah (1703), who married Thomas Dawes (1705). By wife Sarah had Elisha, baptized 9 March, 1717-18.

EZEKIEL LEWIS, son of Capt. William Lewis, of Farmington, Conn., by his second wife, Mary, daughter of Ezekiel Cheever,¹ of Boston. Born 7 Nov. 1764; Harv. Coll. 1695; among his classmates were Simon Willard (1696), Abijah Savage (1708), and Oliver Noyes (1721). After graduation, he taught for a time in Westfield, and then in Boston as an assistant to his grandfather, Mr. Cheever. He became a successful merchant, and was selectman, overseer of the poor and representative. His first wife, Mary (Breadon) (1696), died, 20 Feb. 1703-4, and, says Judge Sewall, she had "a great funeral"; he says further, 12 Oct. 1704, "M^r Ezk. Lewis marries the widow Kilcup." This second wife was Abigail, daughter of Joseph Dudson, and widow of Roger Kilcup (died 1 Oct. 1702); she joined the church under the baptismal covenant, 7 Feb. 1702-3, and had three children baptized at the same time; she was, probably, the Abigail Lewis who united with it in full communion 25 Feb. 1721. Mr. Lewis first joined the church in Westfield, and, in 1705, he transferred his membership to the South Church, of which he became an active member. Judge Sewall mentions him in 1722, with David Jeffries (1711) and Daniel Oliver (1689), as one of the overseers of seats; and he served on many important committees in connection both with the spiritual and secular affairs of the church, until the time of his death, 14 Aug. 1755. His son, Ezekiel, born 1717, Harv. Coll. 1735 (baptismal covenant, 1741), was one of a committee appointed 9 Feb. 1761, to make arrangements for the entertainment of the reverend elders and messengers who were to assist at the installation of the Rev. Alexander Cumming (1761). This son had a son Ezekiel, by wife Jane, baptized 6 Sept. 1741.

He had wife Elizabeth, and children Robert and Elizabeth.

SAMUEL ADAMS, second son of John and Hannah (1700), and father of Samuel, the patriot (1789); born in Boston 6 May, 1689; in 1713, he was married by the Rev. Mr. Pemberton to Mary Fifield (1711). He was a brewer, and "was possessed of an ample fortune for those days, the fruits of his scrupulous attention to business." He also took an active interest in political affairs. He "and about twenty others, one or two from the north end of the town, where all ship business was carried on, used to meet, make a caucus, and lay their plans for introducing certain persons into places of trust and power." From this Caulkers' Club, the word caucus is supposed by many to have been derived.¹ Samuel Adams was for many years a justice of the peace, selectman and representative; he was refused as a member of the council in 1747 by the royal governor, Shirley, because he had been too outspoken in his opposition to the encroachments of the crown upon the rights of the people. His son's biographer says that he was for some years a deacon in the Old South Church, but there is no evidence of this in the church records. He united with others, in 1715, in founding what came to be known as the New South Church in Summer Street, over which a family connection, the Rev. Samuel Checkley, was settled as minister. He died, March, 1748, and it was then said :

"Last week died and was decently interred the remains of Samuel Adams, Esq.; a gentleman who sustained many public offices among us, and for some time past represented this town in the General Assembly. He was one who well understood and rightly pursued the civil and religious interests of this people; a true New England Man; an honest Patriot. Help, Lord, for such wise and godly men cease, and such faithful members fail from among the sons of New England." Independent Advertiser. Wm. V. Wells.

His great son said of him, "he was a wise man and a good man."

HANNAH STODDARD, daughter of Simeon Stoddard (1691) by his first wife Mary (1686).

JONATHAN BELCHER, son of the Hon. Andrew Belcher (1697), by his first wife Sarah (Gilbert); born, 1682; Harv. Coll. 1699; travelled abroad for many years; became a merchant in Boston, and was soon conspicuous in political life. He was a member of the council 1722-23, ¹ The derivation of this word would seem to have been giving trouble for an hundred years at least. In the Independent Chronicle, Boston, 6 Dec. 1786, a writer suggests that the word caucus may be an abbreviation of Caucasus, upon which the gods were accustomed to hold their assemblies.

1726-27, and in 1728 was sent as agent to England. He was Governor of Massachusetts for eleven years, and, in 1747, was made Governor of New Jersey, which office he filled until his death, 31 Aug. 1757. His first wife was Mary (1706), daughter of William Partridge, of New Hampshire. His daughter, Sarah, married Byfield Lyde, and their daughter, Mary Belcher Lyde, joined the Old South, 1768. Rear Admiral Sir Edward Belcher was a great-grandson of Jonathan Belcher.

MARTHA BELCHER—STODDARD, daughter of the Hon. Andrew Belcher (1697), and wife of Anthony Stoddard (p. 296), son of Simeon (1691). She joined the South Church when twenty years of age, and was an exemplary member for more than forty years. She died, 11 Feb. 1748, and her funeral sermon was preached by the Rev. Thomas Prince, the subject being, "The Fulness of Life and Joy in the Presence of God." Her son, Simeon, was baptized 23 Nov. 1707, and graduated at Harv. Coll. 1726.

MARY HOLBERTON—ALLEN, probably a daughter of Capt. Holberton, who sailed between Boston and London, and who, Sewall says, died at sea. He seems to have belonged to the Old South congregation.

We find the death of an Andrew Walker recorded 19 Oct. 1717, and of Mrs. Walker, "wife of Andrew," 8 July, 1717.

ANNE WILLIAMS, daughter of Dr. Samuel Bradstreet, granddaughter of Gov. Simon Bradstreet (1680), and wife of the Rev. Nathaniel Williams (1693).

Daniel Henchman (17—) and Thomas Hubbard (1730), executors, advertised, Nov. 1743, "the mansion house and land of Mrs. Ruth Walker, at the upper end of Hanover St. and opposite to the Orange Tree."

In the town records, we find the death of a "Mrs. Ezekiel Walker," entered under date of 13 Sept. 1712; this could not have been Ruth, wife of Ezekiel Walker, as they had children baptized at the South Church long after this time.

REBECCA SMITH—BAKER, took dismission to the church in Sherborne.

Rebecca Smith, "since Clark," "grandchild to M^r Eliot of Roxbury," was a member under the baptismal covenant (1676). Judge Sewall records her death, 10 Nov. 1711: "Mrs. Rebekah Clark, Mr. Elliott's granddaughter, is dead."

The Rev. Benj. Colman preached a sermon after his funeral, entitled "A Blameless and Inoffensive Life," a copy of which is in the Prince Library.

There was another of the same name, for Dr. Lowell says, that of the original members of the West Church, two,—Hugh Hall and David Stoddard,—came from the South Church, but the name of neither of these appears on our list of members. The West Church was gathered in 1736.

"The covenant was subscribed by seventeen persons, 'after solemn prayer and preaching, in presence of Thomas Prince, pastor of the South Church, and Thomas Foxcroft, pastor of the Old, or first Church.' It is written in the spirit of Robinson and the fathers."—Lowell.

JONATHAN SIMPSON; his name appears on a petition, with the names of Samuel Adams, Thomas Peck and others, in 1715, for leave to erect a meeting house in Summer Street, but if he had thought of assisting in this new religious enterprise, he afterward changed his mind. He was chosen deacon in the Old South Church, 7 Aug. 1733.

"Friday morning last [18 Feb. 1763] died here in the 79th year of his age, very suddenly, Deacon Jonathan Simpson, a noted Shopkeeper in this Town."—News-Letter.

He then practised medicine, and after some years became minister to an Independent congregation in London; he was succeeded there by the Rev. Isaac Watts, who for a short time had been his colleague.

The will of Abiel Walley (1716), proved 31 Aug. 1759, mentions his wife Margaret (1716), and his mother Elizabeth Willard.

The Rev. John Webb, Harv. Coll. 1708, was ordained first minister of the New North Church, Boston, 20 Oct. 1714.

"His labors as a minister were abundantly successful. He was a leading efficient promoter of the Great Revival of 1740-43. No church in Boston shared more largely than his in the blessings of that glorious manifestation of Divine power and grace. We have his own statement, made to the Rev. Thomas Prince, pastor of the Old South Church and Compiler of the Christian History, that in a period of three months, in 1741, he was visited by more than one thousand different individuals in deep concern for their own salvation."—Vinton.

ELIZABETH DANFORTH—WALLEY. She may have been the Elizabeth, wife of John Walley, who died 28 Nov. 1721, aged 32 years.

MARY FIFIELD, daughter of Richard and Mary Fifield; baptized, 13 May, 1694; was married by the Rev. Mr. Pemberton, 21 April, 1713, to Samuel Adams (1706), and, 16 Sept. 1722, became the mother of Samuel Adams (1789). She died, 8 March, 1748. Her son's biographer says of her:

"The mother of Samuel Adams was a woman of severe religious principles, and she early imbued her children with reverence for the Christian virtues which she practised. To the scrupulous attention of his parents to devotional objects must have been greatly due the religious turn of mind which was a prevailing trait throughout the life of the son."—Wells.

In 1789, Samuel Adams, then Lieut. Governor of the Commonwealth, came back to the church where his grandparents and parents had worshipped, and by whose ministers his mother had been baptized and married.

ELIZABETH SCOLLAY, became the wife of Benjamin Mason (1717).

JEREMIAH BELKNAP, grandson of Joseph (1669), and son of Joseph (1688) by his first wife, Deborah, daughter of Jeremiah Fitch; baptized, 9 Jan. 1687; followed the trade of his father, that of a leather breeches maker, says Savage; by wife Sarah had Joseph (1735), whose son was the Rev. DAVID JEFFRIES, son of David the emigrant, who arrived in Boston 1677, and married Elizabeth, daughter of John and Elizabeth Usher; they seem to have attended the South Church, as their children were baptized there. David was baptized 12 April, 1691; Harv. Coll. 1708; he married Katharine (1713), daughter of John and Katharine Eyre (1683). He was a passenger in the "Amity," Capt. Thomas, from London, which was lost off Dungeness, in the autumn of 1716, with all on board except the second mate, Beard, who swam ashore. The Rev. Thomas Prince (1718) had written from England, that he proposed taking passage with "a dear and pious Friend, Mr. David Jeffries, but was prevented by Sickness and other Incidents." Mr. Jeffries left an only son, David (1740), who became a deacon in the Old South. His widow married Oliver Noyes (1693). Mr. Jeffries was a college classmate of the Rev. John Webb; Joseph Sewall (1713) and Thomas Prince (1718) graduated one year earlier, so that they were all in college together for a time.

Buried in one of the new Tombs in the South as Mrs. Hinchman was in the North on Monday."—Sewall.

Capt. Foye's son, William, was for many years Treasurer of the Province; he married Elizabeth Campbell (1728).

ALEXANDER SEARS,
REBECCA SEARS.

They soon took dismission to the New North Church. Judge Sewall records that at the ordination of the Rev. John Webb, the first minister of that church, 1714, the representatives of the sister churches "were entertain'd at Mr. Seers's." His signature followed that of the pastor, Mr. Webb, on the church covenant. He was a member of the committee to build the meeting house ; and he was among those who strenuously opposed the settlement of the Rev. Peter Thacher (1673), as colleague with Mr. Webb in 1720. He was a sea captain by profession.

The Rev. JOSEPH SEWALL, son of the Hon. Samuel Sewall (1677), and grandson of John Hull (1669), one of the founders of the church. Like his immediate predecessor in the Old South pastorate, Mr. Pemberton, he was one of the baptized children of the church.

Aug. 19, 1688 ; " Mr Stoughton at our House in the afternoon to hear Mr. Willard, who, after Sermon, baptized my young Son, whom I named Joseph, in hopes of the accomplishment of the Prophecy, Ezek. 37th and such like ; and not out of respect to any Relation, or other person, except the first Joseph." [" Behold I will take the stick of Joseph etc."] — Sewall.

He graduated at Harv. Coll. in 1707, the Rev. Thomas Prince, his life long friend and colleague, being in the same class. He was installed as a colleague with Mr. Pemberton in 1713, and surviving three colleagues, lived until 1769. He was not a great man ; " but, in humble, ardent and consistent piety, and devotedness to the work of the ministry, has seldom been equalled. A disposition naturally mild and affectionate began to be sanctified in childhood ; and evidences are preserved of his diligent and faithful use of the means of promoting growth in grace from early youth." " He delighted in the work of the ministry ; and when he grew venerable for his age as well as his piety, he was regarded as the father of the clergy. The rising generation looked upon him with reverence ; and all classes of people felt a respect for his name." His sermons, of which many were published and are preserved, were always instructive and practical. Although of a deliberate and cautious disposition, he "was courageous in withstanding error. He could sacrifice everything for peace, but duty and truth and holiness."—Wisner.

In 1724, he was called to the presidency of Harvard College, to succeed Mr. Leverett, but in compliance with the urgent desire of his people, he declined the invitation. When Jonathan Belcher (1706) returned from England, in 1730, as Governor of the Province, he brought for him a diploma from the University of Glasgow, constituting him a Doctor of Divinity. He was for many years one of the commissioners of the Society in London for Propagating the Gospel in New England, and a corresponding member of the Society in Scotland for the Promotion of Christian Knowledge.

His funeral sermon was preached by his nephew, the Rev. Charles Chauncy (1724), who said :

"On the evening of the 26th of last August, the day on which he compleated fourscore years, he spake to you from this desk, with affectionate gratitude to God upon such an extraordinary occasion, and so as to endeavour your spiritual edification. He was not permitted, after this, to preach to you more than three or four times. * * * It would be a great omission, if I did not make mention of him as one of those 'good men, for whom one would even dare to die.' He was in his temper, pitiful, tender hearted, courteous, kindly affectioned ; and from principle as a Christian, he 'forgot not to do good and communicate,' as he had opportunity, and according to his ability. It was his practice to lay by one full tenth of his income for the uses of piety and charity. And sometimes, as occasions in providence called for it, he went even beyond this."

Dr. Sewall lived to see his son, Samuel (1749), whom he had baptized, a deacon of the Old South. His wife, Elizabeth (1711), daughter of the Hon. John Walley (1679), died many years before him.

NATHANIEL EMMONS, son of Samuel and Mary (Scott) Emmons; married Mary (Warmall) (1709), and died in 1720 or 1721. Sewall speaks of attending a meeting at the Widow Emmons's in the autumn of 1720. Their son, Nathaniel Emmons, was one of the early portrait painters, and his portrait of Judge Sewall is in the possession of Samuel Sewall, of Burlington, Mass.

ABIGAIL LOWDER, granddaughter of Deacon Jacob Eliot (1669), and daughter of William and Abigail (1685) Davis. She married Henry Lowder.

KATHARINE JEFFRIES—NOYES, BETHIA EYRE—WALLEY,

DANIEL HENCHMAN, elected deacon of the church, 17 April, 1719, but his name is not to be found in the list of members. He was grandson of Daniel (1669), and son of Hezekiah and Abigail HENCHMAN. Capt. artill. co. 1738, 1746. He was "the enterprising bookseller who caused the first edition in America of the English Bible to be printed, says Thomas in his History, with a false title page to evade the right of the King's printer."—Savage. He erected the first paper mill in Massachusetts, in 1730. It was on the Neponset River, in Milton, and turned out writing, printing and wrapping paper, from linen rags collected mostly in Boston.—Nason. His daughter, Lydia, married Thomas HANCOCK, and gave the land in Court St. on which the parsonage of Brattle St. Church stood for many years. He served on many important committees in the Old South Church, and when he died, 25 Feb. 1761, a recognition of his faithful services as a church officer was placed on the records. He left a legacy of £65. 13. 4. to the poor of the church.

HANNAH SEWALL, eldest daughter of the Hon. Samuel (1677) and Hannah (1688) Sewall; baptized, 8 Feb. 1679-80. She injured her knee, and was a great sufferer for several years.

She died "after a long languishment," 16 Aug. 1724. Her father says:

"She expired half an hour past Ten. Her pleasant Countenance [as she lay in death], was very refreshing to me. I hope God has delivered her from all her Fears!" Aug. 18; "My Daughter is Inter'd, Bearers, Maj^r Habijah Savage, M^r W^m Payn; M^r John Boydcoll, M^r John Walley; M^r Henry Franklyn, Henry Gibbs. Had Gloves and Rings of 2 pw^t and $\frac{1}{2}$. Twelve Ministers of the Town had Rings, and two out of Town. At our return from the Grave, her Bro^r J. Sewall pray'd."

ABIEL WALLEY,

MARGARET WALLEY.

Abiel, son of John and Elizabeth (1709) Walley, was baptized 5 Sept. 1686; his father received adult baptism on the same day. His mother was probably a daughter of the second John Alden (1669) by his second wife Elizabeth (1674), daughter of William Phillips and widow of Abiel Everill. He was a prominent merchant; in 1721, he was appointed comptroller of His Majesty's Customs for Boston; and in 1750, he was chairman of a committee appointed by the town, consisting of Samuel Welles, Charles Apthorp, Thomas Hancock and others, to memorialize the General Court against the tax then in force, on tea, coffee, carriages and other articles. He took dismission to the New North Church. In 1730, he was a member of a committee of that church, with Samuel Barrett, Joshua Cheever, Josiah Langdon and others, for enlarging its meeting house. His will, dated 1 Sept. 1739, was proved 31 Aug. 1759.

SUSANNA THAYER.

During the prevalence of small pox in Boston in 1721, Sewall speaks of her being brought from Brookline with the disease upon her, Nov. 18. He visited her at a house in Sudbury Street, where she was lodged, and on the 27th expresses a hope that she may recover.

Nov. 30; "About 7. m. Susan falls asleep." "Dec. 1, is decently buried just after the Sacramental Lecture. M^r Cooper [his son-in-law] and I went next the Herse. Is laid near our Tomb. She had serv'd me and my family faithfully fifteen years, and now I hope she is gon to Heavenly Rest."

THOMAS SMITH. Captain Thomas Smith married, 9 May, 1701, Mary, youngest child of John and Margaret (Winthrop) (1707) Corwin, who died 29 July, 1716.

Aug. 1; "Chief Justice and J. Davenport went to the Funeral of Mrs. Mary Smith Corwin, who died on the Lord's Day p.m."—Sewall.

BENJAMIN MASON, born in Boston, 23 Dec. 1695; married, 12 Jan. 1721, Elizabeth Scollay (1711); died, Feb. 1744. Their son was Jonathan Mason (1742), elected deacon 1770; United States senator, 1800-03; he married, 12 Oct. 1747, Miriam Clark (1741). Miriam (1774), daughter of Jonathan and Miriam Mason, married the second William Phillips (1772), deacon, 1794, and lieut. governor.

ELIZABETH HENCHMAN, probably wife of Deacon Daniel Henchman (17—).

CHRISTIAN BASS, wife of Samuel Bass (1704), had daughter Christian (1741), baptized 2 Dec. 1722, who married John Armstrong (1789).

1718.

SIMON DANIEL. Sewall records that his wife Jane died, 9 March, 1719-20, aged 80.

"March, 11th, is buried in the New burying place; Bearers, Sewall, Stoddard; Checkley, Tim Clarke; Capt. Hill, Capt. John Alden. Went to the Funeral from the visitation of M^r Williams' School."

Simon Daniel's will, by which he bequeathed fifty pounds to the poor of the Old South, was proved 21 May, 1722.

The Rev. EDWARD WIGGLESWORTH, son of the Rev. Michael Wigglesworth, of Malden; born, 1693; Harv. Coll. 1710; taught in Boston for a time, and, in 1722, was elected as the first professor of Theology at Cambridge on the Hollis foundation. At his installation, the oaths were administered to him by Col. Penn Townsend and Judge Sewall. His first wife was a daughter of the Rev. John Leverett, president of the college; his second was Rebecca, daughter of Deacon Joseph Cooledge. He was succeeded in the Hollis professorship by his son, Edward Wigglesworth, Harv. Coll. 1749.

The Rev. THOMAS PRINCE, fourth son of Samuel Prince of Sandwich, and grandson of John Prince of Hull who came to New England in 1633. John was a son of the Rev. John Prince, of East Shefford, Berks, England, who "was born of honorable parents, educated in the University of Oxford, was one of the Puritan ministers of the Church of England who in part conformed, and found great friends to protect him in omitting the more offensive ceremonies as long as he lived."

The second wife of Samuel Prince was Mercy, daughter of Governor Hinckley. Their son, Thomas, was born at Sandwich, 15 May, 1687; Harv. Coll. 1707. After completing his studies he went abroad, remaining several years; he preached for some time at Coombs in Suffolk, and was urged to settle there, but he was unwilling to expatriate himself permanently from New England. He returned in the summer of 1717, and was at once invited to several important pastorates; he at length accepted a call to the South Church, as colleague of his classmate and friend, Mr. Scwall, and was installed 1 Oct. 1718. He married, 30 Oct. 1719, Deborah Denny (1727), who had been a member of his congregation at Coombs, and who survived him, and died, 1 June, 1766. Their son, Thomas, Harv. Coll. 1740, a young man of much promise, died at the age of 26; and their daughter, Deborah (1739), one of whose letters to an English relative, describing the revival under the preaching of Whitfield, is extant, died 20 July, 1744, in the 21st year of her age. Only one of the children survived their father, or was married,—Sarah (1745), who became the wife of Moses Gill, merchant, afterward lieut. governor and acting governor.

"The talents of Mr. Prince were above mediocrity; and in diligent and successful study, few if any in America have been his equals. He made great proficiency, not only in divinity, but also in most of the branches of natural science and polite literature cultivated at that period. In history and chronology, especially as relating to this country, his labors were prosecuted with unparalleled industry and fidelity, and have imposed on posterity great and lasting obligation. In 1703, while at college, he began a collection of books and public and private papers, relating to the civil and religious history of New England, to which he continued to make valuable additions for more than fifty years. He also made a large collection of classical and theological works and books of general literature. All these he gave, at his decease, to the church and congregation of which he had been minister. * * *

"But it is not merely for his literary acquisitions and labors that Mr. Prince is to be remembered by us with respect and gratitude. 'That,' said his colleague, in his funeral sermon, 'which set a crown upon all, was, that he feared God from his youth, and early appeared a lover of pure religion.' We have as convincing evidence of his decided, consistent and devoted piety, as of his extensive learning. He was, indeed, a rare instance of diligence and fidelity in the duties of personal religion and in the work of the ministry, united with great ardor and proficiency in secular studies. His sermons were rich in evangelical truth; always prepared with care, abounding in facts and pertinent illustration. 'His discourses,' it is said, 'were sometimes too learned for common people'; but if we may judge from those which were published, he was less faulty in this respect than, from the character of his mind and studies, might have been expected. * * *

"Forty years were these excellent men, Sewall and Prince, associated in the responsibilities and labors of the pastoral office in this congregation; furnishing an example of mutual affection and union of purpose and pursuit, to which the annals of collegiate charges will be searched for a parallel, I fear, almost in vain. The journals and other documents that have come down to us, lay open before us the most secret history of these men; and not a solitary instance appears of unpleasant difference of opinion, or of the slightest interruption, in any form, of confidence and affection."—Wisner.

Mr. Prince's health began to decline in the autumn of 1757. "When means to restore it failed, he expressed his submission to the will of God, saying, It is just as it should be." He died, 22 Oct. 1758, aged 72. On the next Sabbath, his funeral sermon was preached by Dr. Sewall; and at the same service, his Revisal of the New England Version of the Psalms, which he had undertaken at the request of the congregation, and which had been accepted a short time before his death, was used at public worship for the first time.

The Prince Library is now deposited for safe keeping in the Public Library, under a mutually satisfactory arrangement between the City of Boston and the Old South Church.

ABIJAH ADAMS, son of John and Hannah Adams (1700); baptized, 17 May, 1702. He married, in 1725, Deborah Cutler (1726), and he may have had a second wife Hannah, as the baptisms are recorded of "Habijah, of Habijah and Deborah Adams," 9 April, 1727, and of "Hannah, of Abijah and Hannah Adams," 6 July, 1729. He was for many years clerk of Faneuil Hall market, and died in 1768.

HANNAH DEMING, wife of Samuel, who was probably son of David and Mary Deming. John, "of Samuel and Hannah Deming," was baptized 3 Sept. 1721, and joined the church 1741. Samuel died, 22 April, 1722, aged 38, and Hannah, 4 Sept. 1742, aged 66. We find on the baptismal record, as early as 1705, Samuel and Hannah Deming, and in 1747, John and Mary Deming, and Samuel and Mary Deming.

ELIZABETH GREEN—KNEELAND, wife of John Kneeland.

THOMAS ADAMS, son of John Adams (1700) by his second wife Hannah (1700), daughter of Anthony Checkley; born 29 March, 1701; baptized next day.

SARAH WING, wife of Cord Wing, son of John (1669) and Jehosheba (1670) Wing.

1719.

BENJAMIN SIMPSON, had wife Elizabeth.

BARTHOLOMEW GREEN. We do not understand the appearance of this name under the date of 21 June, 1719, as Bartholomew Green, the father, was chosen deacon of the church two months before this, and must have been a member for many years, and his son of the same name is recorded as having been baptized 1 Sept. 1700, and as owning the covenant 2 Jan. 1725.

Bartholomew Green, fourth son of Captain Samuel Green,—“the famous printer of Cambridge, who arrived with Governor Winthrop in 1630,”—was born at Cambridge, 12 Oct. 1666. Early in 1690 he set up a printing office in Boston, but his presses and type were hardly in place before the great fire of that year consumed them. In two years he established himself again. “His printing-house was in Newbury St., now Washington, near the corner of Avon St., a site which he and his successors continued to occupy until the Revolution.” He was “the principal printer of this town and country near forty years.”

He was chosen a deacon of the South Church 17 April, 1719. We are indebted to Judge Sewall's Diary for the date. He died, 28 Dec. 1732; and the following estimate of his character is from the News Letter (4 Jan. 1733), the paper which he had printed for nearly thirty years, and of which he had been the proprietor since 1722.

“He was a person generally known and esteemed among us, as a very humble and exemplary Christian, one who had much of that primitive Christianity in him, which has always been the distinguishing glory of New England. We may further remark his eminency for a strict observance of the Sabbath; his household piety; his keeping close and diligent to the work of his calling; his meek and peaceable spirit; his caution of publishing anything offensive, light or hurtful; and his tender sympathy to the poor and afflicted. He began to be pious in the days of his youth ; and he would always speak of the wonderful spirit of piety that then prevailed in the land with a singular pleasure."

His first wife is said to have been Maria (Mather) ; but in the baptismal register, she is called Mary, and her death is recorded under the same name, 26 March, 1709. During the following year, Mr. Green married Jane Tappan (1697), a niece of Judge Sewall, who survived him.

Bartholomew Green, the son, was "a printer in Boston, 1727, removed to Halifax, N. S., 1751, to establish a printing house, where he died about a month afterward, aged 52."—Paige. He had wife Hannah, and they had five children baptized at the Old South between 1725 and 1734.

GEORGE BETHUNE,
MARY BETHUNE.

George Bethune "was of a younger branch of the Bethunes of Balfour, and his descendants now represent the male line of that distinguished Scotch family."—Eds. Sewall. His name does not appear in the original list of members, but the records show that he served on committees of the church and congregation. His wife, Mary, was a daughter of Benjamin and a niece of Peter Faneuil. They had several daughters who became members of the Old South.

JOHN WALLEY, son of the Hon. John Walley (1679), and grandson of the Rev. Thomas Walley of Barnstable ; born in Bristol, R. I., 11 Sept. 1691 ; baptized at the South Church, 9 Oct. 1692 ; was a merchant ; married Bethia (1713), daughter of John Eyre (1683) ; occupied his father's mansion in Water St., which was sold out of the family several years after his death. In 1718, he and Jacob Wendell were bondsmen for Madam Mico (1689) as administratrix of her husband's estate. He died, 6 March, 1745. Three of his children became members of the South Church before his death: Katharine (1740); the Rev. John, Harv. Coll. 1734 (1742); Bethia (1744). His son, Thomas, attended the West Church and was a member of the standing committee there, under the ministry of the Rev. Dr. Howard; Samuel Hall Walley, son of Thomas, married Miriam (1796), daughter of the second William Phillips (1772), and joined the Old South in 1818; and their son, Samuel Hurd Walley, Harv. Coll. 1826, joined in 1860.

JOHN ELLERY, son of William, who emigrated from the West of England. Born, 25 June, 1681; a sea-captain, and later a merchant. Died, 20 July, 1742, "well reputed among us." Had wife Jane (1712); their son, John (1733), married Elizabeth, daughter of Joseph Ruck, and secondly, Mary Austin.

JUDITH DURANT, wife of Edward Durant; had daughter Judith, baptized 26 May, 1723.

NAOMI DUPEE, wife of John Dupee.

"THEREFORE LET US ALSO, SEEING WE ARE COMPASSED ABOUT WITH SO GREAT A CLOUD OF WITNESSES, LAY ASIDE EVERY WEIGHT, AND

RUN WITH PATIENCE THE RACE THAT IS SET BE-FORE US, LOOKING UNTO JESUS THE AUTHOR AND PERFECTER OF OUR FAITH."
